* The amount is due on account of June 1887 kist from the separated share of Shamser Narain Singh and others, for which it was advertised for sale but not sold, as the price offered by the auction-purchaser did not cover the demand, and a notice under section 14, Act XI of 1859, was therefore issued to all the proprietors, but none paid the arrear. Hence, under order of 29th November 1887, all the separated shares of the estate have been cancelled and entire estate has been advertised for sale.

R. A. NARAYAN SINGH, for Offg. Collector.

NOTICE is hereby given, under sections 6 and 13, Act XI of 1859, that the undermentioned estates or shares of estates in the district of Shahabad will be put up to public and unreserved sale at the Collector's office of that district on the 11th day of January 1888 for arrears of revenue and other demands which, by the Regulations and Acts in force, are directed to be realized in the same manner as arrears of revenue due.

When in columns 5, 7 and 9 of the appended statement it is stated that only a share is to be sold, a separate account is kept for such share, and the other share or shares in the estate are excluded from the sale :—

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON PUBLIC INSTRUCTION IN BENGAL FOR 1886-87.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EDUCATION.

Calcutta, the 3rd January 1888.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report on Public Instruction in Bengal for 1886-87.

The Office of Director of Public Instruction was held by Mr. C. H. Tawney from the 1st April to the 8th July 1886, and by Sir Alfred Croft until the end of the year. The Report for the year 1886-87 has been drawn up by Mr. Tawney, who again officiated as Director in the present year during the absence of Sir Alfred Croft on deputation.

2. The following table compares for two years the figures of all schools that submit returns to the Department:—

General summary.

Class of Institutions.	1885-86.		1886-87.		Average number of pupils, 1886-87.

Grand Total ...	57,533	1,358,029	57,342	1,362,102

The result is so far satisfactory, that there has been an increase, though to a very limited extent only, in the total number of students, and that it has been considerable under every head of superior education. The gain in these departments has been partly, though not entirely, neutralised by the falling off in primary instruction.

3. Classified departmentally, the expenditure on education from public and private sources in all institutions which have come under the cognizance of the department has been as follows for the last two years:—

	1885-86.		1886-87.
	Government expenditure (net.)	Total expenditure.	Government expenditure (net.)	Total expenditure.

Total ...	29,90,000	76,48,000	31,24,000	78,87,000

The Government expenditure has increased by Rs. 1,34,000, chiefly under the head of building. Grants promised by Government in aid of school buildings, of which payment was postponed in 1885-86, were paid last year, and the expenditure of the Public Works Department on repairs and construction was also much larger than in the preceding year. Expenditure on education from private sources is shown to have risen from Rs. 46,58,000 in 1885-86 to Rs. 47,63,000 in 1886-87, but these figures are not complete, no returns of expenditure having been received from the large unaided colleges of Calcutta, and from some other public institutions under private management. It is noticed, however, with disappointment that the expenditure of municipalities on education has decreased from Rs. 81,569 in 1885-86 to Rs. 78,869 in 1886-87. Mofussil municipalities were relieved of police charges in 1882, on the understanding that the funds set free would be devoted to such purposes as education and sanitation, and it was estimated in 1884 that a sum not less than 1¼ lakhs might properly be spent on schools by municipalities. Commissioners of Divisions will now be consulted as to the authority which may with advantage be made over to Municipal Boards in directing education in towns and as to the sums which they may reasonably spend on schools from their own resources.

Recommendations of the Education Commission.

4. From a financial point of view the most important proposals of the Education Commission were those for the promotion of primary education, at an increased cost of ten lakhs a year. These improvements, with many others involving expenditure, have had to be postponed for want of funds. The recommendation of the Committee for the transfer of three colleges to private management, or their abolition in case no suitable agency of the kind could be found, has been carried out in regard to the two principal institutions indicated; the third, that of Chittagong being for the present retained, on the ground that it costs very little, and is of use in a somewhat inaccessible locality. The recommendation to transfer other colleges in case private managers would undertake the charge has been borne in mind, but no indication has as yet been shown of any disposition on the part of municipal bodies or individuals to come forward where the alternative presented is not the abolition of the institution, but its continued maintenance by Government. The Director observes with regard to schools that Utterpara has been transferred to local management on an undertaking that college classes shall be opened in connection with the school. On the formation of District Boards under Act III (B.C.) of 1885, all Government, middle and primary schools were transferred to their management. The administration of such a portion of the grant-in-aid allotment and of the primary grant as has reference to middle and primary schools in extra-urban tracts has also been transferred to the District Boards, with effect from the 1st April 1887. In some districts of the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions and in the Patna and Rajshahye districts, the Boards assumed active charge of educational business before the close of the year. This transfer is the most important educational event of the year, but it occurred at so late a period that no trustworthy information as to its effects is as yet attainable. As regards special instruction the Director states that, with a view to give primary school teachers an opportunity of improving themselves, the establishment of training classes in connection with middle school at an annual cost of Rs. 6,000 was carried out during the year. On the whole it would appear that such efforts have been made to carry out the recommendation of the Commission as were possible without incurring the considerable expenditure contemplated by most of the important proposals made.

Inspection work.

5. The work of inspection appears to have been generally performed by the superior controlling staff with efficiency. The Deputy Inspectors also gave satisfaction in this respect; 40 out of 45 officers exceeded the prescribed number of 150 days on tour, and in the case of the remaining five officers the deficiencies are adequately explained. The average number of days spent on tour by Sub-Inspectors was lower than in the preceding year in every division except Burdwan and Patna, and the average for five of the nine divisions fell short of the required number of 200 days. The inspection work done by chief gurus and inspecting pundits appears to have been considerably less than in the preceding year. The Director has noticed all deficiencies in detail, and evidently exercises a judicious control over this important branch of departmental work. Such control is now even more necessary that it was formerly, as the rules regulating the travelling allowances of Deputy Inspectors and Sub-Inspectors have been modified in such a way as to render close supervision absolutely necessary.

University education.

6. A new college was opened during the year, the Victoria at Narail, in Jessore, and it received a grant-in-aid from Government. The number of colleges thus has increased from 26 to 27, and the number of students on the rolls advanced from 2,998 to 3,215. Of the students 1,085, or one-third, were reading on the 31st March 1887 in Government colleges, 795 in aided colleges and 1,335 in unaided colleges. Among Government institutions there was a marked increase in the number of students in the Presidency and Dacca Colleges, but a falling off in Hooghly and Patna. Of the private institutions, the General Assembly's College, the Metropolitan Institution, the City College, the Ripon College and the Jagarnath College added considerably to their numbers, while on the other hand there was a decrease in the Free Church College, St. Xavier's College and the Doveton College. The total annual cost, and the cost to Government of each student in Government colleges, fell from Rs. 354 to Rs. 344, and from Rs. 266 to Rs. 251, respectively. In aided colleges the cost to Government has risen from Rs. 28 to Rs. 35 on account of increased contributions and falling off in fees.

7. The chief features of the University examinations of 1887 are the favourable results obtained in the private colleges. In the First Arts examination the Government colleges passed 280 candidates, unaided colleges 276, aided colleges 147. In the Bachelor of Arts examination, (exclusive of teachers), the numbers were 118, 108, and 114, respectively. In the second division of those who passed with honours for the B. A. degree the private colleges maintain their numerical superiority, passing 44, against 35 from the Government institutions; but they fall behind in the first division of the honour list, where they count only 17 successes, as against 18 from Government colleges. Similarly, Government colleges passed 40 students for the degree of Master of Arts; private colleges 19 only. The following statement illustrates the gradual progress of private colleges, judged by the test of success at University Examinations:—

The figures showing the number of students who passed the examinations from private institutions include ex-students and teachers.

It will be observed that private institutions surpassed those maintained by Government in the results obtained at the F. A. and B. A. examinations for the first time in 1883-84, and have since greatly increased their superiority in this respect; that the superiority is more marked in the higher of the two examinations; and that even in the severer competition of the honour and M. A. examinations they now almost divide the field. As this comparative progress has been concurrent with considerable advancement in the Government colleges, it is altogether satisfactory.

Secondary education

8. The following statement shows the number of high English schools for native boys and of pupils attending them for the last two years:—

High English Schools for Boys.

	1885-86.		1886-87.
	Schools.	Pupils.	Schools.	Pupils.

Unaided	69	20,719	74	22,995
Total ...	255	56 316	272	61,227

Except in the number of high schools maintained by the Department, these figures show an increase under all heads. The transfer of Government high schools to the management of Joint-Committees appointed under the Local Self-Government Act is now under the consideration of Government.

In the University Entrance Examination of 1887 the success of the candidates is in striking contrast to the results of the examination of 1886. Of 3,407 candidates in 1887, 2,346, or 68·8 per cent., passed, while in the preceding year out of 3,083 candidates only 875, or 28·3 per cent, passed. The Director of Public Instruction writes:—

"The Government schools, as usual, show the best results, having passed 82·5 per cent. of their candidates; the aided schools stand next in order of merit with 67·4 per cent., and the unaided schools passed 59·6 per cent. The striking success of the candidates at the examination of 1887 is due, among other causes, to the change made in the system of marking, which reduced the pass marks in English from 33 to 30 per cent., and in second language and mathematics from 33 to 25 per cent each, subject to a maximum of 33 per cent. on the whole, with the proviso that no candidate who could have passed under the old rules should fail under the new."

The proportion of those passed to candidates is, however, a very imperfect test of the efficiency of a school, as those only are allowed to appear as candidates who, in the opinion of their masters, are likely to do well. The proportion, therefore, guages the degree to which doubtful cases are excluded rather than the success of tuition. In gross numercial results the private schools were superior, passing 1,407 candidates, against 891 from Government schools. And the private schools, moreover, made the greatest amount of progress during the year, having trebled the number of passes in 1886, while those of Government schools only doubled.

9. The figures for middle English schools are as follows:—

and the figures for middle vernacular schools are shown below:—

Total ...	1,141	63,944	1,157	64,478

The fluctuations shown in these tables do not require special notice, except that it may be pointed out that the policy of withdrawal of the department from the direct management of middle schools is maintained. The results of the examinations of candidates from middle schools, English and vernacular, for the middle scholarship certificates were quite satisfactory. Of 5,478 candidates, 787 passed the middle English examination and 2,935 the middle vernacular examination. These figures are considerably better than those of last year.

Primary schools.

10. The returns of 1885-86 showed a very serious falling off in the number of primary schools and pupils, which has been followed by a further decrease, though of smaller amount, during the year 1886-87. The following statement gives the relevant figures:—

Class of School.	Number of schools			Number of pupils.
	1884-85.	1885-86.	1886-87.	1884-85.	1885-86.	1886-87
Upper primary	2,720	3,080	3,146	100,715	118,339	114 871
Lower „	62,860	47,623	45,337	1,121,865	888,160	965,214
Total ...	65,580	50,703	48,483	1,222,580	1,009,496	1,080,085

The decrease in pupils amounted in 1885-86 to 10 per cent, last year to 1·7 per cent. It is the more noticeable because up to 1884-85 there had been a steady increase in the number reported as receiving primary education, and because, as three-fourths of the male population of school-going age are not under instruction in any recognised establishment, and are probably growing up in complete ignorance, there is obviously much room for further progress. As stated in the Resolution on the annual report for 1885-86, the decrease is attributed to the exclusion of small, temporary, or backward schools, that is of those having less than ten pupils, which have existed for less than six months, or which did not use printed books, and keep prescribed registers. The object of this exclusion is to prevent the waste of money urgently needed on institutions which do not really promote education, and is so far as they produce this result, the rules have the entire approval of the Lieutenant-Governor. But it was observed in the last Resolution that a large number of schools proved to be efficient by the fact that they passed candidates at the primary scholarship examination had been abolished, that the Muhammadan muktabs had suffered exceptionally, and that the loss had been greatest where it could least be afforded, in the educationally backward districts of Behar. On these grounds a special report was requested as to the working of the system, and District Magistrates were in the meanwhile authorised to exercise a discretion as to its continuance. The report has not as yet been received, and the results of the year under report add force to the objections raised. Schools successfully competing at the scholarship examinations have shown a further decline from 7,589 in 1885-86 to 7,193 in 1886-87, and there are indications that the discretion left to District Magistrates has not been generally used. Thus of the Furreedpore district the Inspector of the Dacca Division remarks that the loss of primary pupils was in the first place due to "the extraordinary inundations which caused many schools to be closed which were not re-opened owing to their gurus despairing of earning rewards under the operation of the rule of excluding schools of less than six months standing." The Inspector refers to this as one among several causes to which he attributes the effect "of weeding out weak institutions with inefficient teachers," but it is by no means clear that all schools closed on account of a flood must be weak or inefficient. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Commissioner and Director of Public Instruction in considering that in this instance the rule has not been worked in a proper manner, as special indulgence should have been shewn under the very exceptional circumstances of the case. In the Patna Division the Assistant Inspector attributes the decrease to undue strictness having been exercised by the new circle pundit agency in the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions. The new rules have not produced any falling off in the number of pupils, and possibly no such effect would have followed elsewhere had care been taken to apply money saved by withdrawing aid from the worst institutions to increasing the attendance in those which offer a better promise of improvement. In so far as the question is one of the modification of rules in force, it will be separately dealt with; meanwhile what is required is that District Magistrates should exercise the discretion left to them in the matter in such a way as to ensure that the greatest possible results are obtained with the means at their disposal. This discretion may also be left to Local Boards, and the Director should draw special attention to the subject, to prevent the possibility of the orders of Government being overlooked.

11. The following summary is given in the report of the principal heads of charges on account of primary education :—

	Rs.
Stipendiary schools	2,66,437
Non-stipendiary ,, ...	2,83,988
Indigenous ,, ...	347
Prizes	32,474
Subordinate inspecting agency	77,396
Other payments	75,601
Total ...	7,36,243

The grant was Rs. 7,70,092, and though the saving effected is attributed by the Director to judicious management, still, looking at the districts in which it occurred, there seems reason to doubt whether in some instances it was not due to the failure of the authorities to make full use of the money placed at their disposal, even where it was sorely needed. Most of the districts spent their assignments, and those in which there was a saving are in many cases those in which a falling off occurred in attendance. It is noticed that a sum of Rs. 9,578 is charged to the primary grant on account of "contributions to other than primary schools"—an entry which needs explanation. A strange instance is mentioned in the report of the perversion of funds given for primary education to a use apparently altogether foreign to that purpose. and as to this a letter has been addressed to the Commissioner of Patna The primary grant was placed more completely than any other at the disposal of local authorities, with a view to securing elasticity in its administration, and the greatest possible economy. The Lieutenant-Governor gladly recognizes that these ends have in the main been obtained, and that the education of more than a million pupils at an annual cost to Government of less than eight lakhs of rupees is a work upon which all connected with it may be congratulated. But there is some danger that, owing to the absence of routine checks, the funds may in particular instances be looked on as the readiest resource for meeting any local demand, whether really connected with primary education or not, for which there is no budget provision. This is a tendency which the Director and Commissioner should watch with care and check at once whenever it is manifested. The primary grant, as was admitted in the correspondence connected with the late Education Commission, is too small even for the purposes for which it is intended, and any endeavour to encroach upon it should be vigilantly resisted.

12 The economy in administration, which is the necessary condition of the extension of primary education, is most marked when the system of payment-by-results has been fully adopted. The Director observes—

An analysis of the district returns of primary grant expenditure shows that 3,602 schools with 114,027 pupils were aided by stipends only, amounting to Rs. 1,38,430 for the year, the average Government expenditure upon each school being Rs. 38 ; that 2,808 schools with 94,587 pupils were paid Rs 1,05,028 in stipends and Rs. 22,979 in rewards and other payments, or a total of Rs. 1,28,007, being at the rate of Rs 46 a school ; and that 32,028 schools with 691,067 pupils received in rewards and other payments Rs. 2,78,667 in all, or at the rate of Rs 9 a school. There were also 3,718 schools with 69,604 pupils which received Rs 5,321 in sundry small payments without sending pupils to any departmental or local examination. The average payment to each of these schools was a little more than one rupee per annum, chiefly for keeping registers of attendance and submitting returns.

The division between stipendiary schools and those paid by results corresponds to a great extent with that between upper and lower primary schools, and the contrast in point of cost is more marked if attention be confined to institutions in which these several distinctions correspond exactly. The upper primary schools, receiving both rewards and stipends, cost Government during the year Rs. 60 each ; the upper primary schools, receiving stipends only, cost Rs 48 each ; and the lower primary schools, paid by results, cost Rs. 8 each. Even the largest of these sums is not in itself great ; but the proportion borne by the Government contribution to the total cost of upper primary schools—45 per cent—seems excessive by comparison with that given in aid of any other form of primary or secondary education. The Lieutenant-Governor fully recognises the utility of upper primary schools as models, and would be sorry to see any of them discontinued. But it is not clear why the system of grants-in-aid applied to vernacular schools of a higher class, or that of payment-by-results which prevails with regard to other primary schools, should not be enforced in their case also, in order to relieve Government of the disproportionate and increasing cost of maintaining them directly by stipends. On this point a further expression of the Director's opinion will be invited. The weak point in the administration of the primary grant seems to be that funds in themselves small are so largely drawn upon for inspection, stipends and miscellaneous charges, that little remain for the payments-by results, which support the great majority of the schools. The geometry and natural philosophy which, the Director notices, are taught at upper primary schools are no doubt very useful and may justify some extra expenditure; but the main object of the primary grant is to make some impression on the ignorance, even of the elements of reading and writing, which prevails among the majority of the population. A considerable sum would be made available for this purpose if upper primary schools were brought either under the grant-in-aid rules, or under those as to payments-by-results.

Further information will also be requested as to the substitution of pundits for chief gurus as a subordinate inspecting agency in regard to primary schools. This is said to have caused a falling off in the results obtained in the Dacca Division. In Pooree the same effect is attributed to the laxity of the inspecting pundits, and one has been suspended in Balasore for omitting to collect returns If these newly-appointed pundits are not really a success, something may be gained by spending on increased grants for results the sums they now receive for their work of inspection. The night schools appear to have done well in some districts, but in other places they are said to be merely a show, putting ill-gained money into the hands of dishonest gurus. Where such is the case they should be discontinued, and the sums thus saved devoted to increasing the grants for payments-by-results.

Female education.

13. The following table compares the statistics of schools for native girls for the last two years :—

GRAND TOTAL ...	2,296	78,037	2,198	81,054

Seven of the schools teach English ; 25 are classed as middle vernacular and the rest are primary. The total expenditure on education of native girls was Rs. 3,03,451, of which sum Government contributed Rs. 1,07,148. The two departmental schools are the Bethune School in Calcutta and the Eden School at Dacca, of which the former had 119 and the latter 74 pupils. The Bethune School maintained by Government in Calcutta passed four candidates at the Entrance examination, and one at the B. A. examination with honours in Sanskrit. Three students of the Doveton Institution, and one of the Free Church Normal School, passed the former examination. In the middle schools for native girls in Calcutta there was an increase of pupils, but in the primary schools there was a considerable falling off, due to curtailment of the operations of the Mission societies. Outside Calcutta the number of girls' schools and pupils rose in all the divisions except Rajshahye,

Dacca, and Bhagulpore. On the subject of teachers in girls' schools, Mr. Tawney makes the following interesting remarks:—

"As a rule, grant-in-aid girls' schools have separate teachers of their own, but occasionally a pundit in a neighbouring boys' school teaches the girls in the forenoon or afternoon, when his own school is not at work. Primary fund girls' schools are generally in charge of gurus who also teach in boys' pathshalas, and are held at midday when the boys disperse to their homes. Such girls' classes are sometimes taught in separate houses by the same teachers, but often in the same houses at different hours. The girls reading in boys' schools are taught along with the boys, and generally hold their own, though they are believed to be less strong in arithmetic and accounts. The majority of the girls continue at school till they attain the age of 10 years, but in the villages girls of 11 or 12 are sometimes seen.

"As yet the number of female teachers is not large. They are practically confined to the town of Calcutta and the Presidency, Burdwan and Orissa Divisions, where Christian Missionaries have worked for a large number of years. Calcutta has about 150, the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions about 120, and the Orissa Division about 50. For other parts of the country their number is small. A few of the female teachers are Hindus or Muhammadans brought up in the village schools, but the great majority of them received their instruction in Missionary schools. The general belief is that they are not so efficient as male teachers, and are at least twice as costly."

Education of Europeans.

14. The following table compares the number of schools for Europeans on the 31st March 1887, and the number of pupils in them, with the figures for the preceding year.—

Class.	Number of schools on the 31st March.		Number of pupils in them on the 31st March.
	1886.	1887.	1886.	1887.
Government	1	1	94	82
Aided	51	59	4,951	4,882
Unaided	11	12	1,053	1,427
Total ...	63	72	6,098	6,391

The increase in the number of schools is partly nominal, owing to the division of certain institutions into distinct Departments, separately aided, and the real progress made is most correctly guaged by the moderate addition to the number of pupils under instruction. The Government expenditure was Rs. 2,50,367, and the total expenditure, including cost of boarding establishments, was Rs. 9,24,865.

15. The High school examination, introduced by the Code as an alternative to that for entrance to the University, was held during the year for the first time; ten candidates appeared from St. Xavier's College, and, with a single exception, they passed in one or more subjects, earning the prescribed rewards. No competitors appeared from the fifteen other high schools open for boys, but seven girls presented themselves, and the Lieutenant-Governor observes with pleasure that they were all successful. Proposals are under consideration for making this examination more generally popular. Thirty-nine students passed the University Entrance examination, against 38 in the previous year, and there was some improvement in their position on the list. St. Xavier's College passed fourteen, the Doveton College and La Martiniere six each, the Doveton Institution seven, and St. Pauls, Darjeeling, four. The system on which Government aid is granted to European schools may be described as one of payment-by-results after careful examination of each pupil. It is stated in the report that the introduction of this system has increased the efficiency of the schools, as is indicated by the fact that, while in 1883-84 only 35 per cent. of the scholars presented for examination were above Standard III, in 1886-87 the percentage had risen to 45. The improvement is greatest in middle schools for girls, where the percentage was 30 in 1883-84, 34 in 1884-85, 39 in 1885-86, and 44 in 1886-87. The impulse given by the Code to secondary education is also shewn by the progress of the schools from the middle to the high stage; in 1883 only two girls' schools, both unaided, contained high departments; at the present time eight aided and two unaided girls' schools are preparing candidates either for the Entrance, or for the high school examination. The most conclusive proof of the improvement of the schools is the increase in the percentage of instruction grant earned from 61·3 to 65·5. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are given to Mr. Nash for his careful atten tion to his duties as Inspector of these schools.

Training schools.

16. The object of these institutions is to educate the future vernacular teachers of middle and primary schools. Sixteen were maintained during the year by Government, teaching 716 pupils, at a cost of Rs. 64,846, or Rs. 4,053 a school, and Rs. 90 a pupil. Ten were also kept up by Missionary Societies, receiving aid from Government, teaching 619 pupils at a cost to Government of Rs. 11,226, or Rs. 1,122 a school, and Rs. 18 a pupil. The great comparative cost of these schools is, perhaps, unavoidable, being due to the fact that the students instead of paying fees generally receive stipends ; but no opportunity should be neglected to effect judicious economies. Gurus have been authorised to read free in middle schools, Government or aided, and Government has undertaken to pay a rupee a month to head-masters for every guru under instruction. The classes opened under these orders, which number 104, have been included in the returns for the first time this year. The working of this system should be watched with care, as it may, if really successful, facilitate some saving of the expenditure on training schools. With regard to several of the schools, but not as to all, it is stated that students after passing through the course readily obtained employment. This is a matter to which constant attention is necessary, as if any of the schools do not fulfil in practice the object of training those who afterwards take to teaching as a profession, the expenditure in excess of that in ordinary middle schools will be wasted.

Law and medicine.

17. In the ten law schools the average number of students for the year was 1,055, against 947 in the preceding year, and at the University examination 152 candidates qualified for the degree of Bachelor of Law, against 119 in the previous year. The total number of students of medicine rose from 752 to 965 ; this increase was partly due to the opening of three new schools in Calcutta, and partly to increased attendance. It is stated that the best educated of the students of the Campbell Medical School do not enter Government service, but obtain appointments on railways, in the employ of municipalities, in factories, in emigration depôts and tea-gardens, and that some of them have no difficulty in establishing lucrative private practice in mufasil stations and villages. The Maharani Surnomoye's hostel was built during the year to half its proposed extent, and occupied by ladies studying medicine. Advantage was taken of Her Imperial Majesty's Jubilee to raise subscriptions, which already amount to Rs. 50,000, for the erection of a permanent building for the very successful school of medecine at Dacca. There is ample evidence that this branch of technical education is progressive and popular.

The Engineering College, Sibpore, and Survey Schools.

18. The number of students in the Engineering Department of the Seebpore College fell during the year from 52 to 44, and the result of the University examination was not satisfactory. Mr. Tawney expresses an opinion that all the subjects studied in the College are well and carefully taught, but for some reason it has not been successful, either in passing a fair proportion of its students by the University test, or in securing for them prompt employment. The question of altering the arrangements of the College with a view to improvement is now being considered by a Committee. The number of students in the Apprentice Department continues almost unchanged, and it appears that the training they receive is satisfactory. Three survey schools were maintained during the year, at Dacca, Patna and Cuttack, the Government expenditure upon them being Rs. 6,369. The number of pupils increased from 201 to 210. The head-master of the Dacca school states that the institution under his charge satisfies a real necessity, and is largely growing in popularity, a fact which he considers proved by the increase in the fees received. The Lieutenant-Governor would be glad to procure the opinion of officers of the Departments which dispose of surveying appointments as to the working of these schools, as has been done in the case of the Seebpore College, and the Chief Engineer and Director of the Agricultural Department will be communicated with on the subject. It is most important that these technical schools should give a training not only good in itself, but also adapted to the immediate requirements of the day, so that their students may find prompt and remunerative employment on successfully completing their studies.

Art and Industry.

19. Mr. Tawney observes that a considerable impulse has been given to industrial education during the year, four unaided schools having been started in Moorshedabad, where Mr. Anderson, the District Magistrate, evinces the warmest interest in the subject, and a very promising school having been opened in Calcutta, by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. A new school has also been opened in Midnapore. There are now fifteen institutions of this class, 20 educating 792 scholars, at a cost to the Provincial revenue of Rs. 2,444. The only Government school of the kind, that at Ranchi, has never been successful, and was maintained only in the hope that it would be reformed, for which purpose steps were taken during the year. The facts stated convey the impression that these schools in certain places elicit much sympathy from municipal authorities and liberal individuals, and that there is a strong disposition to support them; but that hitherto the problem of their management in such a way is to make them of the greatest practical use has not been solved. Carpentry is the most general subject of instruction, sewing, tinsmith's work, wicker work, drawing, and in Calcutta electroplating are also mentioned as being also taught in one or more schools. Most of the schools have been newly established, and it would be premature to enquire whether they will stand the crucial test which must be applied to all technical institutions, that of the ultimate success of their scholars in the fields of industry. The Schools of Art, Calcutta, maintained its high reputation during the year.

The features of the year in Muhammadan education are an important advance in the number of students who passed the University examinations, and a considerable increase in the Muhammadan pupils in secondary and upper primary schools. In the M.A., B.A., F.A. and Entrance examinations 2, 19, 31, and 51 Muhammadans were successful, against 1, 4, 12, and 44 in the preceding year. The percentage of Muhammadan students going through the University course and at high English schools is still, however, lamentably low. There has been an increase in secondary schools, which is common to all divisions, and in pupils in madrassas. The falling off in the number of pupils returned for lower primary schools is due to general causes specified in the paragraph on the subject of primary education, and is not peculiar to Muhammadan pupils.

Aboriginal and backward races.

21. The total number of pupils returned under the head of aboriginal and backward races fell from 29,906 to 27,201, and the decrease is attributed to greater precision in returning purely aboriginal pupils than was attempted in previous years. Two-thirds of these pupils are returned from Chota Nagpore and from the Sonthal Pergunnahs. The advance of education among the Kols in Singbhoom is the most noteworthy feature of this part of the report.

Indigenous education.

22. The total number of indigenous schools on the returns increased from 2,234, with 22,749 pupils, to 4,221, with 45,508 pupils. The increase appears to be due to the inclusion of small schools which were excluded from the previous year's return. Mr. Tawney gives the following account of the kinds of schools classed as indigenous in these Provinces:—

"The purely indigenous education of the country is carried on in—(1) tols, (2) maktabs, (3) kyoungs, (4) patshalas, and other schools that do not conform to the departmental standards The tols constitute the indigenous universities of the country for the prosecution of Sanskrit studies. The only language taught is Sanskrit, through the medium of which the pupils, after learning Sanskrit grammar, study one or more of the following special subjects:—Smriti or Hindu law and theology, nyaya or logic, kavya or litera humamores, alankara or rhetoric, and Sanskrit works on medicine. The maktabs are schools where the elements of Arabic, Persian, and Urdu literature are taught, the higher branches of Arabic and Persian literature, philosophy and law being exhaustively studied in the madrassas, of which an account has been already given under the heading of Muhammadan education. In both, considerable attention is devoted to the Koran. The kyoungs are the modern representatives of the ancient Buddhist-Viháras. In these institutions instruction is given in Pali, the sacred language of the Buddhist, by a Raoli or Buddhist priest. None but Buddhist students are admitted into the kyoungs. These have been returned from the district of Chittagong only. The patshalas not conforming to the departmental standards constitute the indigenous primary schools of the country, in which an elementary education is given in the vernacular language of the district."

23. The Lieutenant-Governor tenders his thanks to Sir Alfred Croft and to Mr. Tawney for their administration of the department during the year.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 56, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

○ overcast, d drizzling rain, = fog, ≏ dew.

CALCUTTA, the 3rd January 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 30TH OF DECEMBER 1887.

THE fine settled weather which had obtained throughout the whole of Bengal since the commencement of December has, during the present week, changed slightly owing to the influence of disturbed conditions in Central India, which gave light to moderate rain over that area on the 27th and 28th of December. The disturbed conditions which were induced in Bengal were not, however, sufficiently developed to give more than heavily clouded skies over a considerable part of the province, though at one or two isolated stations a few drops or even slight showers of rain have fallen. At the commencement of the week, therefore, ordinary cold-weather conditions existed over Bengal, skies were almost cloudless over the greater part of the province, temperature and humidity were low, and a steady northerly wind current was blowing. With the development of the disturbed conditions over Central India, conditions in Bengal to a certain extent became reversed; the sky clouded over rapidly, particularly in South and South-West Bengal; temperature, decidedly increased, the increase being principally in the night temperatures; humidity generally rose and at one or two stations in Orissa and South-West Bengal slight rain was reported. In the northern districts of the province the weather conditions were much less affected, and here generally the weather has remained almost throughout the week of ordinary north-east monsoon condition. The effect of the disturbed conditions, however, rather rapidly passed away from Bengal, and on the 29th and 30th skies were generally almost cloudless over the whole province, and weather appeared again settled.

Pressure.—The changes of pressure have generally been small throughout the week; on the 24th there was a slight fall, which was followed by a steady increase which lasted three days; on the 28th and 29th pressure fell at most stations, and on the 30th there was a rather rapid rise. Taking into consideration only those stations from which observations have been received for many years, and which therefore yield reliable averages, the mean pressure of the province for the whole week has been 0·02 inch in excess of the normal, and on the whole the distribution of the excess has been very equal, though, if anything, the excess has been largest in the west of the province.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature during the week have been rather considerable, and owing to the increase which took place in the middle of the week, the mean temperatures have been decidedly above the normal. The mean temperature of the province has been 0·7° in excess of the normal, but the largest excess (above 1°) has been confined to East and North Bengal and Chutia Nagpur, while in North Behar temperature has been slightly below the normal.

The general distribution and variation of temperature from the normal can be most clearly seen from the following table, where the actual average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are given, compared with the normal means for the same period. At these nine stations the day or maximum temperatures have been 0·4° in defect of the normal, while the night or minimum temperatures have been 0·6° in excess.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remain as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

PART IV.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following further preliminary report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Municipal Affairs of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta was presented to the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 7th January, 1888, and is, together with Part I of Chapter II of the Bill as further amended by the Select Committee, by order of the President, published for general information:—

The Committee having completed the revision of Part I of Chapter II of the Bill relating to the constitution of the Corporation, think it desirable, looking to the special interest which attaches to that portion of the Bill, to submit a preliminary report to the Council showing the modifications which they have made.

1. The Committee have carefully considered the letters of the Trades' Association and the Anglo-Indian Defence Association objecting to the proposed constitution of the Corporation, supported as they are in general terms by the letter of the Chamber of Commerce; but they do not, all things considered, see their way to remodelling the wards of the Corporation as recommended in paragraph 8 of the letter of the Trades' Association, or to introducing the principle of nationality as recommended in the letter of the Anglo-Indian and European Defence Association. They have also come to the conclusion that the number 75, a number which is almost necessitated by the retention of 25 wards, is not so excessive as to constitute any serious objection to the Bill as it at present stands. They have ascertained that at Bombay, where the number of the Corporation has hitherto been fixed at 64, the draft Bill now under consideration proposes to raise the number to 72, and much as the draft Bill has been criticised by the Bombay Corporation, no objection has been taken to the proposed increase in the number of the Councillors.

2. On the other hand, the Committee have come to the conclusion that some change is equitably called for in section 9, as urged in the letter of the Trades' Association, paragraph 11. They find that at every election in Ward No. 12 the Commissioners have been either wholly or partially elected by the vote of the electors, who owe their qualification in that ward to their practising in the High Court or Small Cause Court; and they think that the Commissioners for so influential a ward as No 12, and one which pays such heavy rates, should be elected by those whose interest in the ward is greater than that of a professional man who only practises in the law courts in that ward. They have therefore attached the professional vote to the ward in which the voter resides, unless he has an office and pays rates for it in the ward in which he works. For the same reason the Committee have on fuller consideration required Fellows and Graduates of the University to vote in the ward in which they reside; otherwise the residents of Ward No 8—the most populous ward in the town—will practically be deprived of their second member The question whether a vote should be given to University Fellows and Graduates is one of principle on which the Committee are almost equally divided, and they consider that it should be left by them for the decision of the Council.

3. The Committee have also come to the conclusion that very great weight is due to the objection of the Trades' Association to plural votes as at present conferred by sections 11 to 13 of the draft Bill, though they are of opinion that the equitable solution of the question should be sought in the opposite direction to that recommended by the Association, viz., by giving a plural vote to all communities on an equal footing. As this is a very important matter, the Committee think it right to enter more fully into the reasons which have led them to this conclusion.

4 The plural vote has hitherto been exercised in Calcutta. It is bestowed by the present Act, directly in section 9, so far as different wards are concerned ; but it has also been habitually exercised by Hindu joint families paying Rs. 50 and upwards in rates and taxes, on the ground that each member of the family pays his proportional share of such taxation, and that if five members, say, of a family pay Rs. 200, each pays in effect Rs. 40. Of course it follows that if five members only pay Rs. 100, each pays less than Rs. 25, and all are disqualified; but under such circumstances the existence of these members would ordinarily be kept in the background by the election agents when applying for registration. Such a system is obviously susceptible of great abuses, and sections 11 to 13 were therefore framed with the view of regulating the practice and bringing it within definite and fixed limits ; but on fuller consideration the Committee admit that it will still give undue weight to one community, and the inequality should therefore be done away with

5. But the Committee are very strongly of opinion that the inequality should be removed, not by depriving those who pay the highest rates and taxes of their legitimate influence, but by distinctly recognising the right of those who contribute most to the maintenance of the Corporation to a more potent voice in electing the governing body. It has been the rule in England to recognise the plural vote in measures of local self-government In the Parish Vestries as constituted by 58 Geo. III, c. 69, and 59 Geo. III, c 12 and c. 85, the rate-payers can give from one to six votes, a vote being given for every £25 of rating. In the most important unit of local self-government, the Union as constituted by the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1834, the governing body consists of the resident Justices, who are nominated by the Government, and of guardians elected by the rate-payers ; one vote in the election of guardians is given for every £50 of rating up to a maximum of six votes. Similarly in the urban districts, constituted local government districts under the Public Health Act of 1875, the members of the Board are elected by owners and rate-payers, plural votes up to a maximum of six votes being allowed : one vote for every £50 of rating.

6. It appears, therefore, that whether the practice hitherto obtaining in Calcutta is looked to, or English legislation, there is ample precedent for allowing plural votes; but the Committee base their decision far more on the intrinsic equity of the principle and its extreme importance in the best interests of a city such as Calcutta. It is difficult to conceive that it can be seriously contended that a person who just pays Rs. 25 is entitled to an equal voice in the election of the Commissioners with the large commercial houses which are the chief factors in the prosperity of the town, or that a landlord of many of the largest and most heavily-rated houses in the town ought to have his vote balanced by that of a clerk in an office living in a house rented at Rs. 25 to Rs 30 a month. Although the effect of this proposal will obviously be to assist the European community somewhat in election contests, as they on the average live in much more heavily rated houses than the native rate-payers, the Committee do not consider that it will make any very material difference in the nationality of the Corporation ; nor do they mainly adopt it on that ground. In general the wealthier Europeans will be voting in the same ward with the poorer Europeans, and the wealthier natives with the poorer natives ; but the Committee consider that the quality of the persons who will become candidates for election will be everywhere improved. If the one-man-one-vote principle is adopted, the Committee consider it certain that as the poorer rate-payers who will everywhere be the majority, learn to use their power, the status of those who present themselves for election will gradually but inevitably decline; while if wealth is given its due weight, better and more influential persons will be willing to offer themselves for election. The Committee hope that on fuller consideration the Association will see that the remedy which they suggest would be even worse than the disease, and would lead to precisely the opposite result to that which they wish to attain.

7. On the other hand, the Committee consider that the question is one which should be dealt with in a practical manner; they do not consider that it would be right or expedient to multiply votes in direct proportion to the multiples of taxation. A single person who can give 10 votes does practically exercise more influence on an election than 10 separate voters each with one vote. They have therefore allowed no one to give more than six times as many votes as the poorest voters in ordinary elections. In bye-elections the plurality will be augmented but these are too few and comparatively unimportant to constitute any serious objection. They do not consider that there will be any difficulty in working the system, and the provisions which deal with Companies, &c, would in any case be requisite in order to determine who should be entitled to the single vote, so that they cannot be regarded as a complication due to the plural vote. Indeed, the plural system will rather tend to solve such difficulties as, where the members do not agree, they may be able to divide the votes among themselves instead of being obliged to vote as one person.

8. But the Committee trust that no difference of opinion regarding details will divert attention from the far more important question of principle. Are all rate-payers who contribute up to a certain minimum to be placed on an equal footing, or are those who contribute most, and who in the great majority of cases are better qualified to judge of the needs of the town, to have a more influential voice ? The majority of the Committee are in favour of the latter principle.

9. A change has also been made in section 29, which requires explanation. The clause which enabled the Committee to contribute to primary education has been omitted. Nearly half of the Committee were in favour of abandoning the limitation regarding primary education, but this was negatived. These members then held that it was better to allow no contribution to education at all than to maintain the restriction; hence the majority against the clause

The Committee will submit their final report as soon as they are in a position to do so.

CALCUTTA AND SUBURBAN MUNICIPALITIES AMALGAMATION BILL.

THE HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON presented the preliminary report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the municipal affairs of the town and suburbs of Calcutta, and moved that it be published. He explained that the Select Committee, knowing that this part of the Bill would probably attract a special share of public attention, had thought it desirable, as soon as they had finished that portion of the Act which embodied the proposed constitution of the new Corporation, to lay these sections, with a preliminary report, before the Council, and to suggest for His Honor's consideration, as the President, whether it would not be advisable to publish this report and this portion of the Bill separately, in order that the public might thus know the precise proposals which were coming before the Council. It also further appeared to the Committee—and he begged to suggest this for His Honor's consideration—that there might be no grave objection, after the new sections had been published for a reasonable period, to commence the consideration of them in Council without waiting for the final report of the Committee. It was probable that this part of the Bill would involve much discussion in Council, and obviously it would save time if they were able to commence the discussion of it without waiting for the procedure portion of the Bill which would follow.

Turning now to the new sections, it would be seen that the earlier sections referring to the number of members, the proportion of nominated and elected Commissioners, and the number of wards, had not undergone any change at the hands of the Committee. This ought not to be taken as expressing the unanimous or even probably the general opinion of the Select Committee that this was the best possible constitution for Calcutta. It rather represented a compromise or mean between extreme views, the best system which they could put forward as involving the least radical changes. He himself had always maintained that larger wards would be more conducive to a good electoral system, but the Committee had not a tabula rasa to work upon. The town now consisted of eighteen wards, and there appeared to be a general sentiment in favour of keeping the present arrangement On these grounds, therefore, the Committee had as it were gravitated to the conclusion that the best number of wards for the new constitution was 25, and thus no alteration had been made.

The only other point which required explanation was the action which the Committee had taken in regard to the system of voting. As the report explained, the plural vote was partially allowed in Calcutta by the present law, and it had partially grown up under the way in which that law had been construed. Now plural voting, as thus exercised, was in some respects open to grave objection. He himself remembered one case in which no less than twenty-nine persons claimed to vote as paying rates for a single property, and therefore last year the Committee had taken the first step in regulating this. But they had been forced to admit that these sections, though they might diminish, would not remove the anomaly, and therefore the Committee found themselves in the position of being called upon to decide whether they would abandon the plural vote altogether, or place it on a broad and equitable basis. It would be seen that the great majority of them were in favour of maintaining it, and, as he attached great importance to this principle, he hoped the Council would bear with him while he made an explanation of almost a personal character. He had naturally taken the greatest interest in the constitution of the Corporation of Calcutta. Twenty-six years ago the town was governed on what he might call an absolute or beauraucratic basis. Three officers appointed by the Government managed all its affairs. In 1863 the principle of associating a large number of the citizens in the administration of the town was introduced by vesting the control in the hands of the Justices. At the same time all the Justices were Government nominees, so that though practically this change did introduce a very considerable non-official and popular element, in theory it left the control as completely in the hands of the Government as before. In 1876 another step was taken, and the system of election was introduced. Now from the many discussions, controversies, reports, and opinions which had clustered round this measure, it was evident to him that two rival conceptions were struggling for the mastery in the minds of the public. With many the elective system had been treated as identical with the admission of a principle which it was hardly an exaggeration to call the Divine right of majorities. It was regarded as equivalent to an admission that the majority of the people, whatever their fitness, whatever use they might make of their power, had a sort of inherent right to govern the town as they might please. It seemed to have been left out of sight altogether, he did not say by all persons, but by many, and he could cite several of the reports which had been addressed to this Council in illustration of this, that there was a middle course which widely differed in principle from this allegiance to majorities, viz., that it was advisable and expedient in the highest sense, in the cause of good government, that those classes and persons in the town who were most fitted to understand its interests and guide its administration wisely, should be associated together in that administration, and that, as these classes knew best who understood their views and their wants, they should not have representatives chosen for them by the Government, but should elect their own representatives as Commissioners. This principle held up fitness and not numbers as the final test, and nomination was expressly maintained side by side with election on purpose to secure a proper voice to the classes who possessed fitness without numbers. He himself had no doubt, and he thought that most of those he was addressing would agree, that this was the truer interpretation of the intention of the Legislature in introducing the elective system, and at any rate it was the only sound principle which could be applied to the government of a city like Calcutta. This was the view of the electoral system which he had consistently held from the time he had had any voice in the government of Calcutta, and he had observed that it led to continual misrepresentation of his views on one side or the other. If he said anything or wrote anything deprecating the Divine right of majorities, he was accused of backsliding and of advocating official absolutism. If he said anything in praise of the good work done by the elected representatives, it was at once assumed that he was desirous of seeing democratic institutions introduced into India, or at least into Calcutta. Now the question of the plural vote did seem to him to have some bearing on this very important principle. We naturally took the English electoral system as our model, and there we found two systems working in local bodies: the system of one-man-one-vote and the plural vote. If anything, the plural vote seemed the more favoured, but in boroughs the one-man-one-vote system was the law. This being so, and having reference to the fact that, in the previous ten years in Calcutta, an indirect plural vote had grown up, the Select Committee had felt themselves at liberty to recommend it as not inviting any radical change. He did submit that it was very desirable, having regard to the exaggerated views which were held regarding the bearing of an elective system, that that principle of voting should be adopted by the Council which most approximated to the true and correct theory.

Now, though it might be too much to say that the one-man-one-vote rule necessarily involved the principle of the inherent right of majorities to do what they liked in Calcutta, it was not too much to say that it decidedly looked in that direction, and, if adopted, it would so far go to confirm any erroneous views which were prevalent. It seemed to say that, though the Legislature was still bound not to give a voice in the election of a Commissioner to those who were totally disqualified, nevertheless, when it had once fixed the pecuniary limit which might be assumed to imply fitness, it was not justified in going any further, but must leave the numerical majority above this limit unchecked in their action, whether this led to the election of those who were most competent or least competent to govern the town. On the other hand, the adoption of the plural vote seemed to imply that the Legislature recognised degrees of fitness. It enshrined the principle that those who paid a larger share of taxation would, on the average, be fitter to govern, and while a minimum vote was to be given to a larger number paying the minimum in rates, nevertheless a more influential voice should be given to those who paid more, and who might be expected to exercise their right of voting more wisely. Even if the practical difference between the two systems, the plural and the single vote, proved small, it seemed very important to adopt that method which indicated that the Legislature recognised degrees of fitness, and not mere numerical majorities. This he held to be the only sound basis on which those interested in the well-being of the town could be associated together to form its governing body. Those who contended that the introduction of the elective system was tantamount to blind submission to the majority, contended for a principle which must prove equally fatal to its expansion or its success. While those who contended that it meant the judicious conferring of power on those who were most fitted to exercise it, in proportion to their fitness, contended for a principle which he believed to be capable of extension with the happiest result. While, however, he mainly advocated this on the ground of principle, he did also think that it carried with it some practical advantages. They could not afford to allow the most intelligent citizens of the town to abstain altogether from the elections. He believed the system of polling would be productive of great good as regarded the poorer class of voters; but he did apprehend that there would be great difficulty in getting the more busy and wealthy voters to go to the poll. If only the one vote was given to them, that difficulty would be enhanced; but if they were given more votes in accordance with the amount of rates and taxes which they paid, they would be more important factors in the elections, and it would be less difficult to induce them to go to the poll. Suppose, for instance, a man of business in this part of the town was asked to give his one vote at the poll; if he knew that his vote would count as one, he would think twice before he would go out of his way to give his one vote. But if he had to give six votes, he would feel that his vote was so important that he would submit to the sacrifice. As regards this number six, Sir Henry Harrison would draw attention to the fact that the maximum proposed extent of the plural vote was not 12 times that of the single vote, as might at first sight be supposed, but only six times as much. Six was the English limit, and therefore there appeared to be a precedent for taking six as the limit here. A vote in Calcutta had always meant a vote for each vacancy, and to take that away, and say that it should only mean a vote for one candidate in future, might seem like disfranchisement. Consequently the Committee thought it would be desirable to maintain the practice, that when two Commissioners were to be elected, each elector had a vote for each candidate, or he might give both his votes to one candidate. Hitherto the usual practice had been to give all the votes to one man. Still every elector understood that he had the power of dividing his votes, and perhaps 10 to 15 per cent. of the electors had actually done so. The Committee therefore thought it preferable to leave the existing practice as it was, and thus the plural vote meant so many additional votes rising in a scale not strictly proportional, but up to a maximum of six times the minimum when the property was valued at over Rs. 5,000 a year. There had just been a number of elections in Bengal, and he had noticed that the general complaint had been precisely the complaint that obtained in Calcutta, that the number of unintelligent voters was so large that the election went by all sorts of artifices, and that the intelligent voters abstained from going to the poll because they were swamped. This had been specially contended regarding the Burdwan elections by the Sanjibani, which in an article at the end of November argued strongly against the one-man-one-vote system as swamping the more intelligent voters, and allowing the illiterate, as being the larger number, to govern the election. For these reasons, he hoped the principle of the plural vote would commend itself to the Council, even if they thought it advisable to modify the details. With these remarks he begged to move that the preliminary report of the Committee be published.

His Honour the President said that the hon. member who had just spoken had really made two motions, one that the preliminary report of the Select Committee on the Bill should be published, which was one about which there could be no hesitation in the Council, and which His Honour believed was in the power of the President to sanction on his own motion; and the other, which was of a more novel character, was that, after giving due time for the consideration of the report before them, it should be taken into the consideration of the Council without reference to the fact that the final and complete report of the Select Committee could not by that time be before them This was a matter in which His Honour placed himself entirely in the hands of the Council. If there was any opposition to the proposal, His Honour would not think it right to force it. If, on the other hand, there was no such opposition, he conceived they should all agree in looking at it as advantageous to make a commencement of what was likely to be a long and troublesome debate, as early as could be consistent with giving the public full time to consider the report. If, therefore, there was no objection to the procedure on principle, His Honour proposed to give three weeks' time and take the report into consideration on the 28th instant. But, as he said, His Honour was entirely in the hands of the Council in the matter, and he should like to know whether any member had any objections to the proposal that the report be taken into consideration without reference to the fact that the report of the Committee on the other parts of the Bill could not by that time be complete. His Honour, not being on the Select Committee, could not speak with authority, but he had reason to believe that it would not be long after that time that the report would be complete.

The Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter said he had one observation to make. He wished a full discussion to come on upon the Bill, and he thought it desirable that public opinion should be ascertained, in the first instance, before the discussion took place. The reason he rose to say a few words was this. He was one of those who had not signed the report, being entirely opposed to the principle adopted by the majority. The reasons which induced him to do so he craved leave to refer to on a future occasion when the matter would come up for full debate. He thought it advantageous to have this matter taken up before the other portions of the Bill were discussed, because these were important matters, and he doubted not they would take a long time to discuss fully. Therefore he would very much prefer the matter to be cleared up by discussion before the full report of the Select Committee came up before them.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison also moved that the Hon. Mr. C. H. Moore and the Hon. Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee be added to the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Municipal affairs of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 28th January, 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF DECEMBER 1887.

THE meteorology of the month of December in Bengal is usually very simple, the conditions being almost identical with those which obtain during the preceding month of November, the only difference being that the north-east monsoon conditions are present in their most complete form during this month and in January. The normal features of the month of December are therefore diminishing temperature, increasing pressure, considerable dryness of the air, an almost complete absence of cloud, the prevalence of a light northerly wind current, and usually absence of rain during the greater part or almost the whole of the month.

These normal conditions may, however, be disturbed by two classes of actions—the first class of disturbances are those which are formed in Upper India and consist of shallow barometric depressions which, after their formation, drift slowly in a south-easterly or easterly direction, and usually enter Behar, and sometimes even drift over the whole of Bengal, filling up in their advance. They usually almost reverse the weather conditions in Bengal, giving heavily clouded skies, an increased night and diminished day temperature, a considerably increased humidity, and a diminished pressure, and when the disturbance is considerable, general light rain is received. It is from this class of disturbances that practically the whole of the rainfall of December in Bengal is received, but when such a disturbance disappears, the cold-weather conditions usually set in with increased intensity, and fine dry weather with unusually low temperature then obtains. The second class of disturbances are brought about by the formation of cyclonic storms in the Bay of Bengal, but usually in December such storms, if they form, are generated in the extreme south of the Bay, and it is very rarely that they are sufficiently intense to affect the weather in Bengal to any considerable extent.

The average rainfall in Bengal in December is therefore small in all districts. The normal fall in Orissa is equal to about six-tenths of an inch. in East Bengal, it is equal to about four-tenths, and in Chutia Nagpur and South-West Bengal to about three-tenths while over the remainder of the province the fall is between one and two-tenths only.

Meteorology of the month.—The chief features in the meteorology of December have been—

1. Slight excess pressure over the greater part of the province, the excess being largest in the northern districts and comparatively small at the southern stations.
2. An almost normal average temperature over the whole province, though slight defects have been shown in South-West and East Bengal, North Behar and Assam, and slight excess temperatures elsewhere.
3. Decided dryness of the air.
4. Cloud proportion considerably below the normal.
5. An almost complete absence of the two classes of disturbances noticed under the description of the normal meteorology of the month; and
6. An almost entire absence of rainfall over the whole province.

The weather conditions over the whole of Bengal during December have been extremely simple, and call for little or no comment. The normal north-east monsoon conditions have been present almost uninterruptedly throughout the month. A fairly strong and steady northerly wind current has blown over the province. Skies have been almost cloudless, humidity and temperatures have been low, and pressure has been high, and there have been no disturbances either over Upper India or in the Bay of Bengal to influence the weather conditions in Bengal. The only time during the month when the normal weather conditions were at all altered was during the existence of slight disturbance over the Central Provinces, which brought rain to that area on the 27th and 28th instant, and about this time also skies began to cloud over in Bengal. These slightly disturbed conditions in Bengal, which commenced from about the 25th of the month, may also have been connected with the formation of a diffused cyclonic storm in the Arabian Sea towards the end of the month, which disturbance subsequently influenced the weather on the west coast of India. The disturbed conditions in Bengal were, however, not sufficiently developed to do more than give one or two light showers at some of the western stations, and thus rainfall was practically absent from Bengal for the whole of the month.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure throughout the month have generally been small and of the usual oscillatory character noticeable during fine settled weather. Taking into consideration only those stations from which pressure records have been received for a series of years, and which therefore yield reliable averages, the mean pressure of the whole Province of Bengal for December has been 0·011 inch in excess of the normal. The excess has been most strongly marked in the northern districts, and at Durbhanga the excess has been 0·026 inch, and at Purneah 0·024 inch. On the other hand, at such stations as False Point and Saugor Island, the average pressure has been almost absolutely normal In Assam the mean pressure for the month has been below the normal by small amounts, the defects at Dhubri and Silchar having equalled about 0·01 inch, while at Sibsagar pressure has been normal.

Temperature.—The mean temperature of the whole Province of Bengal during December has scarcely varied from the normal, the variation not amounting to more than a tenth of a degree. In Assam, on the other hand, temperature has been below the normal by seven-tenths of a degree. The oscillations of temperature during the month have also been of little importance, though at its commencement temperature was rather considerably above the normal, but the excess was soon neutralized, and for the last three weeks the average temperature was almost normal.

The general variation of temperature from the normal during the month is best shown by the following table, where the temperature data at nine typical stations in different districts in the province are given, the numbers shown being the weekly variations of the maximum, minimum and mean temperatures at each station from the normal values:—

The largest variations appear to have been in parts of Behar, where in the Patna and Shahabad districts the mean temperatures for the month have been from 1° to 2° above the normal Rainfall—As above stated, has been practically absent from the province throughout the whole month, but owing to the slightly disturbed conditions existing in the latter end of the month, one or two stations reported a few drops of rain, but the amounts were of no practical importance. The only reporting stations which have thus reported rain have been Dhurmsalla in the Cuttack district and Midnapore.

The following table gives in a condensed form the summary of the rainfall information in Bengal for the whole year. It gives a comparison between the actual monthly and total rainfall of the year with the normal falls in each of the seven large meteorological divisions of Bengal, the actual falls being expressed as percentages of the normal amounts. From these figures, it will be seen that the falls for the year in Behar and North Bengal have been about equal to the normal, those in Chutia Nagpur and South-West Bengal have been about 10 per cent. below the normal, and those in Orissa and East Bengal about 20 per cent. below it:—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2·3° lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

CALCUTTA, the 10th January 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 6TH OF JANUARY 1888.

Towards the middle of the previous week conditions had become slightly disturbed in Bengal, but after a few days' cloudy weather, the skies had cleared rather rapidly, and ordinary settled north-east monsoon weather obtained. At the commencement of the present week, however, skies again began to cloud over in Bengal, and particularly at the Chutia Nagpur stations and at some in South-West Bengal the sky became almost overcast. There do not appear to have been any particularly abnormal conditions over Bengal or over Upper India to account for this disturbed condition of the weather in Bengal, and, so far as can be seen, the altered conditions must have been brought about by the gradual formation of a diffused barometric depression or cyclonic storm off the Bombay Coast, which reached Bombay about the 5th instant. Practically for the whole of the week under review the normal north-east monsoon conditions in Bengal have been either partially or in a few instances almost wholly thus reversed. In Chutia Nagpur the sky has been overcast for nearly the whole of the week, while over the greater part of the province the skies have been heavily clouded. The northerly wind current fell off in force, and light and rather variable winds have been reported. The pressure variations have been rather larger than usual and somewhat irregular, and on the whole pressure has been unusually high. The night temperatures also rose very considerably, and became considerably above the normal, though the day temperatures were still low. Humidity also increased considerably. Light rain has also been reported at many stations in Chutia Nagpur, and in some cases on two and three days, while light rain showers have also been received in South-West Bengal, North Bengal, and South Behar. The weather conditions in Bengal, therefore, have been more or less disturbed throughout the week.

Pressure.—As has been already stated, the variations of pressure during the week have been rather large. Up till the 1st instant the variations do not call for notice, but on the 2nd instant there was a rather rapid general rise amounting to nearly a twentieth of an inch; this was succeeded by a moderate fall on the 3rd, and on the 4th a sharp increase took place generally exceeding 0·06 inch, but on the 5th and 6th the changes were smaller and rather irregular. For the whole week, taking into consideration only those stations which have submitted observations for a series of years, and which therefore yield reliable averages, the mean pressure of the province has been 0·072 inch in excess of the normal. At some of the central stations, such as Berhampore, an average excess pressure of no less than a tenth of an inch has been reported. Some of the actual pressures recorded during the week have been exceptionally high, particularly during the last three days of the week.

Temperature.—The mean temperature of the week in nearly all districts has been largely in excess of the normal. For the whole province the excess has been 2°, but in Orissa it has been no less than 4°. As stated in the general summary, the day temperatures have remained rather low, while the increase has taken place almost entirely in the night or minimum temperatures, and at most stations the day temperatures have been below the normal, while the minimum temperatures have been largely in excess. This is shown in the following table, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are given, and compared with the normal for the same period. It will be seen that the average of the maximum or day temperatures at these nine stations was 0·09° in defect of the normal, while the average of the night or minimum temperatures has been no less than 3·3° in excess of the normal.

Rainfall—Has been entirely absent throughout the week in Orissa, East Bengal and North Behar; in South-West Bengal a few showers fell on the 5th and 6th in the Moorsheda. bad district, and at two or three other stations, such as Raneegunge, Khatra and Beerbhoom Sorry; in North Bengal a few light showers fell in the Cooch Behar, Darjeeling and Rungpore districts; and in South Behar light rain showers were received in the following districts:—Gya, Patna, Monghyr, South Bhagulpore and Sonthal Pergunnahs. The most general rainfall was received in Chutia Nagpur, where the majority of stations reported rain, in some cases commencing from the 4th instant. In this division the average fall has equalled 0·26 inch, but in all other divisions the falls have been so small that they have averaged only a few hundredths of an inch.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain gauge is one foot above the ground.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remain as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Ages," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorised form of age classification.

NOTIFICATION.

The 17th January 1888.—The following instructions of the Board of Trade to officers in British Possessions abroad, with the Order in Council, dated the 15th September 1887, referred to therein, are published for general information :—

Consecutive Office No. 330.
Departmental, 1081.
Colonial, 18.

BOARD OF TRADE,
Marine Department,
November 1887.

INSTRUCTIONS TO OFFICERS IN BRITISH POSSESSIONS ABROAD.

Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

THE annexed Order in Council, dated the 15th day of September 1887, revokes all Orders previously issued relating to Colonial Certificates of Competency, and consolidates all the regulations now in force relating to their use, issue, delivery, cancellation, and suspension.

As the Colonial Certificates of Competency referred to in the said Order in Council are to have the same force as the similar Certificates granted by the Board of Trade in the United Kingdom, such a Colonial Certificate must be accepted as occupying in every respect the place of one of the latter, and as entitling its bonâ fide holder to act in the capacity stated in it, or any inferior (but not a superior) capacity in any British ship, all over the world without the possession of a Board of Trade Certificate.

Colonial Certificates will have to be used, produced, and delivered at the times and on the occasions at and on which Imperial Certificates of Competency would have to be used, produced, and delivered.

When it appears from a Certificate (Imperial or Colonial) officially produced to the Officer that its owner possesses other Certificates, their production also should be required, and if they are not produced their owner's explanation in writing should be demanded and forwarded to the Registrar-General of Seamen with the least possible delay.

Officers in British Possessions abroad are empowered by Regulation 9 attached to the Order in Council to demand, and if necessary detain, any such Colonial Certificate which they have reason to believe has been improperly issued, or has been forged, altered, cancelled, suspended, or to which the person using it is not justly entitled.

Whenever this power is exercised, a report of the facts and circumstances must be sent by the Officer, with the least possible delay, to either the Board of Trade or the Government of the Possession in which the Certificate was originally granted, or may purport to have been granted, accordingly as communication may be easier and quicker.

As the withdrawal of a Certificate would in some cases entail inconvenience, not only upon its possessor, but also upon the owners of the ship and cargo, it is scarcely necessary to caution Officers that the exercise of this power should only be resorted to when the evidence is perfectly clear; and if the ship is bound to the United Kingdom, and the report above mentioned has been sent to the Possession in which the Certificate was originally granted, the Board of Trade should nevertheless be informed of the facts.

Every case of death of a Colonial Certificate-holder, which may come to the Officer's knowledge, should be reported without delay to the Government of the Possession in which the Certificate was granted.

The attention of Officers and Functionaries in British Possessions abroad, engaged in the conduct of Official Inquiries in wreck and discipline cases, is directed to the fact that the Certificates to which the Order in Council applies will be liable to cancellation and suspension in precisely the same way as Certificates granted by the Board of Trade under the Merchant Shipping Acts, and by the same Boards, Courts, and Tribunals. The provisions of "The Merchant Shipping Act, 1854," and "The Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862," as to Courts of Inquiry, will therefore be applicable to the Colonial Certificates in question, with the exception of the provisions specified in the Order in Council.

AT THE COURT AT BALMORAL,

The 15th day of September 1887.

PRESENT:

THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY IN COUNCIL.

WHEREAS by the "Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869," it is (amongst other things) enacted, that where the Legislature of any British Possession provides for the examination of, and grant of Certificates of Competency to, persons intending to act as Masters, Mates, or Engineers on board British ships, and the Board of Trade reports to Her Majesty that they are satisfied that the examinations are so conducted as to be equally efficient as the examinations for the same purpose in the United Kingdom under the Acts relating to Merchant Shipping, and that the Certificates are granted on such principles as to show the like qualification and competency as those granted under the said Acts, and are liable to be forfeited for the like reasons and in the like manner, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council—

1. To declare that the said Certificates shall be of the same force as if they had been granted under the said Acts;
2. To declare that all or any of the provisions of the said Acts which relate to Certificates of Competency granted under those Acts shall apply to the Certificates referred to in the said Order;
3. To impose such conditions and to make such regulations with respect to the said Certificates, and to the use, issue, delivery, cancellation, and suspension thereof, as to Her Majesty may seem fit, and to impose penalties not exceeding fifty pounds for the breach of such conditions and regulations.

And that upon the publication in the London Gazette of any such Order in Council as last aforesaid, the provisions therein contained shall, from a date to be mentioned for the purpose in such Order, take effect as if they had been contained in the Act, and that it shall be lawful for Her Majesty in Council to revoke any Order made as aforesaid:

Attention is further directed to the provision now for the first time inserted in Regulation 6 attached to the Order in Council, under which Colonial Authorities are empowered to issue a lower grade of Certificate in lieu of a Certificate cancelled or suspended by an official Court of Inquiry, if the Court of Inquiry make a recommendation to that effect.

It will be noticed that Regulation 8 attached to the Order in Council provides that the cancellation or suspension of a Certificate shall involve cancellation or suspension of all the other Certificates (if any) possessed by its owner. With the view of carrying this Regulation strictly into effect, it will be desirable that the Court should endeavour to ascertain and should specify in their decision the particulars of all the Certificates possessed by any person whose conduct is the subject of an investigation by them.

In cases of cancellation or suspension of such Colonial Certificates, copies of the report of the Court and of the evidence, together with the respective Certificates, should be sent to the Governments of the British Possessions by whom the several Certificates possessed by the offender were originally granted. A full report upon the case and the evidence should, at the same time, be sent to the Board of Trade, as required by the Act, and the sentence, giving the number of each Certificate dealt with, and the Possession in which it was granted, should be mentioned in it.

The holders of Colonial Certificates which are cancelled or suspended should be referred to the Government of the Possession in which the Certificate was originally granted, instead of to this Board, if they desire to appeal from the sentence or to apply for a mitigation of it.

These instructions must be understood as having reference only to the Certificates referred to in the said Order in Council.

HENRY G. CALCRAFT,
Secretary.

THOMAS GRAY,
Assistant Secretary.

M. 17665
1887.

And whereas by Orders in Council of the 29th day of June, 1882, and the 10th day of November, 1886, Her Majesty was pleased to rescind the said Conditions and Regulations (except in so far as the same related to Certificates of Competency granted to Masters, Mates, or Engineers by the Governor of Hong-Kong), and to substitute therefor the Conditions and Regulations set out in the Schedule to the said last recited Order in Council, and numbered 1 to 10 respectively, and to declare that the same should apply to all Colonial Certificates granted under any of the said recited Orders:

J. F. FINLAY,

Offg. Accountant-General, Bengal.

The 16th January 1888.—The following papers are published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

IMPERIAL INSTITUTE, LONDON.

Cir. No. 2—2-1M. & Ex., dated Calcutta, the 6th January 1888.

From—W. R LAWRENCE, ESQ., C.S., Under-Secy. to the Govt. of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

I AM directed to forward, for the information of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, and for any action that may be deemed necessary, a copy of a letter dated the 14th October 1887, received from Sir F. Abel, in connection with the Imperial Institute.

The memorandum referred to in paragraph 1 of the letter has not been received.

Dated London, W. C., the 14th October 1887.

From—SIR F. A. ABEL, Organizing Secretary, Imperial Institute of the United Kingdom, the Colonies and India.

To—HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE EARL OF DUFFERIN, K.P., G.C.B., G.C M.G., G.M.S.I., Governor-General of India.

I HAVE the pleasure, by direction of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, to enclose a memorandum descriptive of the progress which has been made to date in the establishment of the Imperial Institute, as His Royal Highness believes that the information which it contains will be of interest to Your Lordship and to the Committee which has acted under your directions during the present year in obtaining contributions to the funds of the Institute.

2. The large measure of success which has attended the efforts of the various Local Committees throughout the country has been very gratifying to the Prince, and I have the instructions of His Royal Highness to request that you will be good enough to convey to the individual members of your Committee the expression of His Royal Highness's high appreciation of their hearty co-operation in his desire to found a fitting National Memorial of the Jubilee of the Queen's reign.

3. The very satisfactory progress which has been made, during the first nine months of organized work, towards ensuring the foundation of the Institute upon such a basis as to allow of the extension of its sphere of usefulness in all the contemplated directions, warrants the sanguine expectation that the amount which has been estimated as necessary for that purpose will be provided within no very distant period

4. A considerable number of Local Committees have signified their willingness to prolong their operations with the especial object of obtaining additions to the "Endowment Fund" of the Institute which is about to be created. His Royal Highness trusts that it may be possible for you and your colleagues to adopt this course.

5. Should you or your Committee desire any further information which it is in my power to afford, I shall be happy to reply to enquiries or to arrange for the personal attendance of an official upon you or the Committee.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* Means for six days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The number of rainy days are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 15 years. The total rainfall of each station in the district, sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Friday, the 13th of January 1888

CALCUTTA, the 17th January 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 13TH OF JANUARY 1888.

The weather throughout the province during the past week has been uniformly fine, with clear skies and light cool northerly or westerly winds. The barometer was unusually high at the commencement of the week, and fell steadily until the end of the week. Last week's report showed that it had risen equally steadily during the previous week. The barometric changes of the past fortnight have hence been due to a prolonged oscillation, and were probably produced by a slow vertical oscillatory movement in the atmosphere of the same period. As the total barometric change was as large at Darjeeling as in the plains of Bengal, the atmospheric movement must have extended to a very considerable elevation. It frequently happens that the last day or two of a period of falling barometer in the cold weather is accompanied with, or followed by, the formation of cloud and by increasing temperature. The present has been a partial exception, as skies were cloudless over the plains throughout the week, although they clouded over at Darjeeling on Friday. Temperature also decreased in Bengal, but rose slightly in Behar and Chutia Nagpur, and also considerably at Darjeeling.

Barometer.—Pressure decreased steadily from the beginning to the end of the week, The total fall averaged ·15″ in Orissa, ·18″ in Bengal, ·22″ in Behar, ·23″ in Chutia Nagpur. and was ·19″ at Darjeeling. Notwithstanding this large fall, the mean pressure of the week was above the normal by amounts which varied considerably, but which averaged ·05″ for the Province.

Temperature—Diminished during the week in Orissa and Bengal. The largest decrease occurred at the stations of Calcutta and Jessore, at which the mean daily temperature at the end of the week was 5° lower than at the beginning of the week. The decrease in Orissa and Bengal averaged 3°. It increased on the other hand at Darjeeling (4°) and also slightly (from 1° to 3°) in Behar and Chutia Nagpur. The lowest night temperatures during the week were registered at Motihari (40·1°) and Arrah and Buxar (43·9°), and the highest day temperatures at Commilla (83·4°) and Cuttack (82·8). The mean temperature was below the average in Chutia Nagpur (3°), South Behar and Orissa (1½°), and South-West Bengal (½°), and above it in East Bengal (2°) and North Bengal (1½°). As is generally the case in periods of diminished temperature in the cold weather, the effect was more strongly shown in the night than the day temperatures.

Winds—Blew steadily during the week from their ordinary cold-weather directions. They decreased in force during the week, and were very light and feeble on Friday.

Humidity and rain.—The humidity of the air varied little during the week. There was a slight increase on the last day or two, chiefly in North Bengal and Behar. Skies were cloudless throughout the month in the plains, and no rain fell in either the plains or hill districts of Bengal.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The numbers of the natives remain as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorised form of age classification.

General remarks on the fluctuation of principal staples carried over the East Indian Railway during the month ended 26th November 1887.

INCREASES.

Coal and coke.—There was a decrease in the upward traffic and an increase in the downward despatches; the former was due to limited despatches to foreign railways, and the latter to despatches to the Eastern Bengal State Railway stations over the Jubilee Bridge.

Indigo.—This increase was due to an abundant crop in Tirhoot.

Jute, raw.—Due to short lead traffic from the Eastern Bengal vid the Jubilee Bridge.

Gunny.—This increase is attributable to despatches to up-country stations for linseed.

Fruits, other kinds.—The increase was principally in betelnuts from Scaldah and Digha ghât, and in fruits despatched by Cabuli traders vid Ghaziabad.

Gram and Pulses.—Due to despatches from North-Western Provinces to Dholpore, Gwalior and Morar owing to scarcity at these places.

Other rain and spring crops.—This increase is due to despatches to up-country stations to meet demands caused by a partial failure of the crops.

Rice (husked and unhusked).—There was a decrease in weight carried attended with an increase in earnings; the former is due to lesser demand in Calcutta for shipment, and the latter to long lead traffic despatched to up-country stations owing to the partial failure of crops.

Iron.—The increase was chiefly in despatches from Howrah owing to better demands up-country.

Oil.—The increase was chiefly in kerosine oil from Howrah.

Opium.—Due to despatches from Patna and vid Tarighat, in accordance with the arrangements for sale in Calcutta made by Government.

Seeds.—The increase was chiefly in linseed to Calcutta for shipment.

Sugar, refined and unrefined.—The increase was principally in despatches of jaggree from certain stations in the Dinapore district; stations on the Gya line; from Ghazipore and from the Oudh and Rohilkhund Railway vid Moghalsarai and Aligarh to Howrah, Great Indian Peninsula and Bombay Baroda and Central India Railways.

Piece-goods, European.—There was a decrease in weight carried, and a slight increase in earnings.

DECREASES.

Cotton.—The falling off in this staple is due to this year's crops having been both poor and late.

Other fibres, raw.—This decrease is in continuation of that reported last month, and was almost exclusively in hemp from Allahabad.

Wheat.—Due to stocks being exhausted

Railway Material, Foreign.—There was a decrease in earnings and an increase in weight carried, the decrease was in the long distance traffic from Howrah, and the increase was in the short distance traffic for the Indian Midland Railway from Jubbulpore to Manikpore.

Salt.—The decrease was principally in the despatches from Howrah, which showed a heavy increase in November 1886 as compared with 1885.

INCREASE.

	Tons.
Grains—(2). Rice	108

The increase in this staple is due to greater despatches from intermediate stations owing to good crops this year and greater demands.

Oilseeds—(2). Mustard and rape	15

This increase is due to greater demands in the market.

DECREASE.

Piece-goods—(1). European	22

The piece-goods for Khagra, Berhampur and Gorabazar are carried by the steamer that plies between Calcutta and Jenganj and hence the decrease.

Silk, raw—(2) Indian	30

This decrease is due to tusser cocoons not having been brought to Azimganj as last year.

CURTAILMENT OF ANNUAL REPORTS

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 17th January 1888.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

(1) The Government of India's Resolution in the Home Department, No. 37—1392-406, dated 12th August 1885.

(2) Bengal Government Resolution, dated 25th October 1886.

(3) Chapter V of the Report of the Salaries Commission of 1885-86.

(4) Home Department Resolution, dated 15th July 1887.

(5) Finance and Commerce Department Resolution, dated 23rd August 1887.

(6) Revenue and Agricultural Department Resolution, No. 526—69-6, dated 14th September 1887.

In the Resolution first named above, the Government of India asked for an expression of the opinions of Local Governments upon proposals made by the Government of the Punjab for the abolition of certain annual reports and reviews of administration. The view adopted by the late Lieutenant-Governor, after consultation with the Salaries Commission, the Board of Revenue, Heads of Departments, Commissioners of Divisions, and Collectors of Districts, was embodied in a Resolution, dated 25th October 1886. The orders of the Government of India in its various Departments upon the subject have been received in the papers numbered (4), (5), and (6) in the preamble to this Resolution, copies of which, together with copy of Bengal Government Resolution of 25th October 1886, are appended for facility of reference. The general conclusion arrived at is that annual reports can be only slightly reduced in number, but that they should be curtailed in length to the utmost extent which is consistent with a proper examination of the facts and figures presented in them.

2. Sir Steuart Bayley now desires to impress very strongly on all officers who submit annual reports, including those not in direct communication with Government, the necessity of studying conciseness. The object aimed at in the preparation of these reports should be to convey the greatest amount of information in the fewest words possible. For the last sixteen years the tendency has been to increase the bulk of reports, and the idea that they will be saved by much writing seems to have become the guiding principle of some subordinate officers It is essential that this belief should be eradicated, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that all Heads of Departments will discourage its manifestation. The practice noticed by the Salaries Commission of weaving into sentences figures already given in tabular statements is but one of the methods by which the bulk of reports is increased without any addition to their value.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor notices that many officers frame a considerable part of their reports by stringing together extracts from the reports of their subordinates, when these might with great advantage have been summarised. The introduction of unnecessary contentious matter in annual reports should always be avoided. It is also to be remembered that these reports are not the proper medium for submitting definite proposals, which should form the subject of separate communications.

4. Separate instructions will be issued to officers submitting reports to Government where such are necessary to supplement the orders of the Government of India, or to indicate how superfluous matter can be excluded.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

Dated Darjeeling, the 25th October 1886.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

READ—

Home Department Resolution No. 37—1392-406, dated the 12th August 1885, regarding the curtailment of annual reports.

Report of the Salaries Commission, dated the 10th December 1885.

The Reports of the Board of Revenue, the several Heads of Departments, the Commissioners of Divisions, and other officers.

In a Resolution recorded in the Home Department on the 12th August 1885, the Government of India requested all Local Governments to submit their views on a proposal made by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab to substitute in many cases triennial for annual reports, and to have statistical returns, with or without explanatory notices, for the intervening years. Sir Rivers Thompson considered that the opportunity should be taken to reconsider in detail all existing orders requiring the preparation of periodical reports under the Bengal Government, in order to the retrenchment of whatever might be found to be superfluous. The correspondence was, therefore, forwarded for examination to the Salaries Commission, and the report of that body, when obtained, was circulated to the Board of Revenue, to the Heads of Departments, to Commissioners of Divisions, and to Collectors of Districts, for the expression of their opinions. The replies of these officers were then considered by the Lieutenant-Governor at a conference of the Secretaries of the different Departments. This procedure has occupied a considerable time, but its adoption appeared desirable in dealing with a question which affects every branch of the administration.

2. The inconvenience of adding to the burden of administration by requiring the submission of unnecessary reports can be felt in no part of India more strongly than in Bengal, where officials of all classes have to economise their time with the utmost care in order to meet the varied and growing requirements of an enormous population. On the other hand, the extent of the country, the diversity of the conditions of the provinces of which it consists, the comparatively complex form of administration, and the interest taken in public affairs by a considerable section of the community, add weight to the considerations elsewhere advanced in favour of the annual preparation and publication of really important reports. The Government of India has pointed out that such reports are useful as presenting evidence of departmental efficiency, as embodying necessary information in a convenient form, as the source from which all officers collect for their guidance the results of the experience of their predecessors, and as salutary checks upon the conduct of responsible officials. In Bengal an influential section of the public looks to the publication of these reports as the means for acquiring a knowledge of the acts of Government, and would resent any serious diminution in the information given. It has been pointed out by some very experienced officers that the preparation of these periodical statements has a less obvious advantage as regards their authors. The Board of Revenue observe: "The preparation of annual reports not only ensures that the reporting officer shall review his own administration, but it guarantees, as far as it is possible to do so, that he shall have familiarised himself with its details and acquired a proper knowledge of his work. In the absence of annual reports, officers may be tempted to slur over and neglect their work. Even the most vigorous and conscientious of officials are benefited by the practice of reviewing the past, and of summarising in writing the action taken by themselves and their subordinates during the previous twelve months. The value of such a report to the officer who writes it is always great." Mr. Harrison, Commissioner of the Calcutta Police, declares in the same spirit that the report draws the attention of the reviewing officer to much which he would otherwise overlook; and Mr. A. Smith, the Commissioner of the Presidency Division, considers it "a very distinct assistance to administrative efficiency that an executive officer should be compelled once a year to examine the results of the work in all departments, and to ascertain and explain differences exhibited as compared with preceding periods, and facts which appear anomalous." It appears, indeed, to be obviously desirable that the Head of a Department should once a year take stock, examining the results of his administration, and submitting an account of it for the judgment of the authority to which he is subordinate. This work is in no case more necessary than in that of the Divisional or District Officer, who, on account of the multiplicity of his avocations and their pressing character, may be liable to overlook the general effect of his administration upon each department.

3. A considerable reduction may be effected in the bulk of annual reports by the study of conciseness, by the exclusion of all extraneous matter, and in particular by the avoidance of the practice to which attention has been drawn by the Salaries Commission, that of weaving into sentences figures which are also given in tabular statements. In the annexed statement of detailed proposals the Lieutenant-Governor is able to recommend the amalgamation of some reports, as it is believed that where there is little to be said, the effect of requiring a separate report is sometimes to encourage prolixity. As to other reports a definite suggestion is made for their curtailment, and the manner in which this can advantageously be effected will be separately indicated to the officers concerned.

4. The system of triennial reports has not as yet been tried in Bengal, and considerable doubts are felt as to whether it can be applied with advantage to any of the more important branches of administration. There are, however, some subjects, as the Registration of Assurances, Stamps, Dispensaries and Vaccination, as to which experience seems to indicate that annual reports are comparatively of small importance. In these cases it is proposed that a full report should be submitted only every third year, statistical returns, with brief explanatory statements, being forwarded in the intermediate years.

5. The following statement shows in detail the reports submitted to this Government and the manner in which it is proposed to deal with them :—

RESOLUTION.—The subject of discussion in the papers cited in the preamble is the preparation and printing of annual departmental reports submitted to the Government of India in the Home Department. In a letter No. 392S., dated the 22nd June 1885, the Government of the Punjab solicited a reconsideration of the whole question of the preparation and treatment of annual reports, so far as that Province was concerned. The alterations suggested by Sir Charles Aitchison and the views provisionally held by the Government of India on the question are summarised in Home Department Resolution of the 12th August 1885, But as the subject was not one of merely local importance, the Governor-General in Council desired, before coming to a final decision, to have a full expression of the opinions of Local Governments and Administrations upon the proposals of the Punjab Government, so far as they affected the reports which are submitted to the Home Department. The replies from Local Governments and Administrations, read in the preamble, certain their opinions on the matter.

2. The proposals of the Punjab Government were made with the double object (1) of removing the burden thrown upon district officers, heads of departments, and Secretariat establishments in connection with the preparation and reviewing of annual reports; and (2) of reducing the cost of printing the reports. These proposals have not been accepted in full by any Local Government or Administration, except by the Chief Commissioner of Burma; and Mr. Crosthwaite, the present Chief Commissioner of that Province, holds, as his reply from the Central Provinces shows, different views from those held by Sir Charles Bernard. The Governments of Madras, Bombay, and Bengal have to some extent accepted the proposals in question, and the Chief Commissioner of Coorg has expressed his opinion generally in favour of having statistical tables, accompanied by notes, for two years, and in the third year a set of comprehensive departmental reports.

3. The most adverse criticism of the proposals made by the Punjab Government proceeds from the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, from the Administrations of the Central Provinces and of Assam, and from the Resident at Hyderabad. The Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces and Chief Commissioner of Oudh is of opinion that the presentation of evidence of departmental efficiency, and the collection, in a convenient form, of information useful for administrative and other purposes, cannot be secured under a system of triennial reporting with intermediate statistical tables and brief explanatory notes. He considers that, as was suggested in paragraph 7 of Home Department Resolution of 12th August 1885, the brief notes would probably be of little practical value while the triennial report would necessarily be prolix and involve much labour in its preparation. The latter, moreover, would be four years old before the orders of Government could be passed or and subsequent action taken upon it. Sir A. Lyall observes that the labour of scrutinizing statistics is little augmented by that of writing a report on them, and that a careful scrutiny and comparison of past and present returns is a necessary part of the duty of the heads of departments in administrating. But, while opposed to the general adoption of the proposals of the Punjab Government, Sir A. Lyall would meet them to some extent by doing away with reports on certain subjects and by substituting for them statistical tables accompanied every year by a brief commentary in the form of notes, such as is now supplied by the Local High Courts of judicature in reviewing the Criminal and Civil Justice returns.

4. Mr. Crosthwaite, at the time Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces, concurs in the views of the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh in regard to the small amount of labour required to write a report, when once the relevant statistics have been systematically studied. He remarks that the system of writing reports is useful, inasmuch as it ensures that statistics have been scrutinised, and that it enables the Government to see how much care and intelligence have been devoted to this scrutiny. Reports, moreover, in Mr. Crosthwaite's opinion, enable administrative officers to periodically survey the whole of their work and to judge of the effects of it, while they assist Government in seeing how far the recognised principles of administration have been applied and how far errors require to be corrected. If for annual reports triennial reports were substituted, there is, he thinks, likely to be the disadvantage that the officer who had done the work would not ordinarily write the report, or, if he did, that his recollection of the facts regarding which he was writing would have grown dim with time. Under such a system, too, errors of administration could not be corrected at once. Mr. Crosthwaite admits that reports and reviews are often unnecessarily prolix, and should be curtailed, and he suggests that the extended distribution of reports which at present prevails is unnecessary and expensive. He also deprecates the style of review which merely repeats, in other and perhaps fewer words, what is stated in the report.

The Officiating Chief Commissioner of Assam considers that the proposals of the Punjab Government are unsuitable to that Province, and would lead to serious practical inconvenience Mr. Ward is of opinion that the value of reports to departmental officers would be lost by triennial reports, while the labour of compiling the latter would be very great, particularly to officers who had held their charges only for a small portion of the three years.

The Resident at Hyderabad doubts if the proposed reform would have an useful effect, and argues that the review of the year's transactions by the head of the Government affords an incentive to work. Praise or blame, in the Resident's opinion, loses its effect if it relates to a time long passed away. The officer concerned may have left the locality, and it does not always happen that an officer remains at his post for the whole three years for which he would have to write the report.

5. The opinions briefly summarized above confirm the view taken by the Government of India in the Home Department, as expressed in the Resolution of the 12th August 1885, that it was not possible to go as far as was proposed by the Punjab Government in the direction of curtailing the preparation and submission of annual reports. After giving the subject full consideration, the Government of India agrees in the main with the remarks made by the Government of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and the present Chief Commissioner of Burma, regarding the usefulness of annual reports as a means of testing departmental efficiency and the judgment and energy of officers, and also of checking and correcting administrative mistakes. Applying this principle, the Governor-General in Council is of opinion that annual reports must be maintained in the two following cases:—

(a) Where the reports deal with the application of administrative principles still open to modification or the concrete working of which has to be watched.

(b) Where the reports contain statistics which, for administrative purposes, must be complied and examined annually.

These two heads comprise so many of the reports now falling under the cognizance of the Home Department that the conclusion to which His Excellency in Council has come is that, beyond insisting on brevity and methodical arrangement in the reports themselves, and on curtailment of reviews of them, it is impossible to afford much relief to Local Governments in the direction contemplated by this enquiry. The Government of India therefore desires that the reports dealt with in the Home Department should from 1887 onwards be treated in the following manner:—

(i) To be submitted annually as heretofore—

Report on General Administration.
" Municipal Administration.
" Local Boards' Administration.
" Education.
" Sanitation.
" Civil and Criminal Justice.
" Jail Administration.
" Police Administration.
" Lunatic Asylums.

(ii) To be submitted in full every third year, statistical returns and brief commentaries in the shape of notes being submitted in the intermediate years—

Report on Registration.
" Dispensaries.
" Lock-hospitals.
" Vaccination.
" Destruction of wild beasts and snakes.

The notes to be submitted with the statistical returns in the years intermediate between the submission of the reports should give a clear, though brief, indication of the supervising or controlling officer's opinion as to the significance of the statistics.

6. The following special reports should continue to be submitted as before :—

Chemical Examiner's Report.
Report on Calcutta Medical Institutions.
Report of the Port Health Officer, Calcutta.
Report of the Commissioners of the Town of Calcutta.
Report on Publications under Act XXV of 1867.
The Review of Publications.
The Report on Vernacular Papers.

The Government of India leaves to Local Governments, who submit reports on Legal Affairs and Criminal Tribes, discretion to determine whether these reports shall be annually prepared as at present or prepared every third year, with brief notes in the intermediate years.

7. The Governor-General in Council would desire to express his earnest hope that Local Governments and Administrations will insist on curtailment of reports to the utmost extent which is consistent with a proper examination of the facts and figures presented in them. A reduction in the size of the reports on Jails, Police, Education, and Sanitation is especially necessary. In most provinces these reports have become far too discursive.

Compression of reviews is not less called for than curtailment of reports: a review should contain only what is necessary to communicate the judgment of the reviewing authority regarding the salient features of the report. The Governor-General in Council attaches no value to reviews which merely repeat in abridged form what is set forth in the report reviewed.

8. While thus recognising the need which exists for compression in the reports and reviews which reach the Government of India, His Excellency in Council is no less desirous that the same principles should be carefully followed as regards reports received by Local Governments and Administrations, but not forwarded to the Government of India. He fears that the time of administrative and executive officers is unnecessarily occupied as much by the preparation of reports and returns submitted for the information of the local authorities as by the preparation of those which reach the Government of India. He has therefore observed with satisfaction that the Government of Bengal has recently, in connection with the report of the Salaries Commission, directed its attention to this aspect of the case; and he trusts that all other Local Governments and Administrations will exercise a vigorous discretion not only in reducing the bulk of the reports and returns which are retained, but also in abolishing those that are not really required.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance, and that a copy be forwarded to the other Departments of the Government of India for information and further necessary action, and that it be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

Resolution in the Home Department, No. $\frac{28}{1879-95}$, dated the 15th July 1887.

RESOLUTION.—The remarks and orders contained in the Resolution of the Home Department of 15th July above quoted, which are confined to reports furnished to that Department, seem to apply equally to the annual* reports upon subjects administered in this Department. The general opinion of the Local Governments who were consulted on the subject is opposed to any considerable curtailment of reports bearing on revenue matters. The administration of Provincial revenues is left so much is

* Opium.
Salt.
Stamps.
Excise.
Assessed Taxes.
Customs.
Mints.
Trade.
Joint-Stock Companies.
Post Office.

the hands of Local Governments, and they are also financially so greatly interested therein, that it is not, in the opinion of the Government of India, expedient to restrict the Provincial authorities with respect to the information they may consider it desirable to collect and to place on record regarding them.

2. In the case of Opium and Salt Administration Reports, the fiscal interests involved are of such great importance that, even if the fullest information were not necessary for the purposes of the Local Governments, annual reports would be required by the Government of India in order to enable it to watch the administration of the revenue. These reports should therefore be as full as possible without being prolix, and should be furnished to the Government of India annually as at present.

3. As regards the reports on Stamps, the Governor-General in Council has no objection to their being prepared and submitted triennially by any Local Government which considers this sufficient Statistical information only would in this case be submitted in the intermediate years. The reports on the External Land Trade may also be submitted triennially in the same way, the monthly statistics of the trade being transmitted to this Department as at present.

4. The remarks contained in paragraph 5 of the Home Department's Resolution on the necessity of methodical arrangement are specially applicable to the reports submitted to this Department. In reports bearing on revenue matters and trade, comparisons with past years are of special value; but these are rendered difficult unless a systematic arrangement is observed in the subjects dealt with.

5. The Excise reports should in all cases be prefixed by a concise description (which may be repeated from year to year) of the various systems on which the excise is administered in the province concerned, and the extent to which each system applies. There is necessarily in such matters much diversity of practice, and the value of the reports is occasionally diminished by the use of technical terms, whose precise signification is little known beyond the limits of the province, and is often different in different provinces.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to all Local Governments and Administrations and to the Heads of Departments under the Department of Finance and Commerce for information.

(16) Resolution recorded in the Home Department, No. $\frac{28}{1879—95}$, dated the 15th July 1887.

RESOLUTION.—This Resolution may be considered as supplementary to that issued in the Home Department, No. 28, dated 15th July 1887, the general principles expressed in which may be applied to reports submitted to the Government of India, in the Revenue and Agricultural Department. The reports thus submitted are concerned with the subjects enumerated below—

(1) Land Revenue Administration.
(2) Forest Administration.
(3) Land Records and Agriculture.
(4) Court of Wards and other estates administered by Government.
(5) Horticultural and Botanical Gardens.
(6) Experimental Farms.
(7) Trade Statistics, Quarterly and Annual.
(8) Colonial and Inland Emigration.

2. The Government of India concurs with the general opinion expressed in the replies which have been received that no material alteration should be made in the preparation of the Land Revenue Administration and Forest Administration Reports, and that these should continue, as at present, to be annually submitted.

3. Report of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture.—The annual publication in every Province of the Report of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture in the form prescribed in Circular Resolution No. 54A., dated the 28th April 1884, is, in the opinion of His Excellency in Council, essential for the purpose of indicating the progress which may be annually made by the Department of Land Records and Agriculture in connection with the measures adopted in pursuance of the recommendation of the Famine Commissioners in each portion of the Empire. The report consists of two main divisions—Land Records and Agriculture—and, is designed to show the executive work of the Department, not to comprise discussions on administrative measures or to contain any description or summary of the economic or agricultural circumstances of the season. The Local Government may, however, require information of this kind to be submitted by the Department to the Chief Revenue authorities of the Province, for utilization in preparing the Land Revenue Administration Report, and may prefer that for that purpose it should be included in the Land Record section of the Departmental Report, rather than be submitted by independent communication. There will be no objection to this course. But there seems to be no reason why statistical statements concerning crops, irrigation, tenures, &c., should find a place in the Report of the Department as well as in the Annual Land Revenue Administration Report, to which latter they should, in the opinion of His Excellency in Council, be confined. The Agricultural section of the Departmental Report should be restricted to an account of the executive operations of the departmental officers, and to a brief description of, or reference to, any results of special interest which may have been obtained during the preceding twelve months, whether in farms, gardens, Government estates, or otherwise, but should avoid lengthy discussions on agricultural subjects, and need not contain any detailed examination of the working of gardens, farms, or other agricultural institutions, which should be dealt with in the Department by orders on the annual reports. In accordance with the above remarks, His Excellency in Council is of opinion that no other review of the Annual Report of the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture than that which may be included in the review by the Local Government of the Land Revenue Administration Report is necessary; and that it will suffice if a copy of the Report, together with any orders which may be passed thereon, is submitted for the information of the Government of India.

4. Report on Court of Wards and other estates administered by Government.—Much importance is attached by Her Majesty's Secretary of State, as well as by His Excellency in Council, to the manner in which estates under Government management are administered, and to the use made of the opportunities afforded by them for ascertaining the economic condition of the agricultural population. Reports on such estates should, in the opinion of the Government of India, continue to be annually prepared. These, and not the reports of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, should contain an account of any agricultural improvements that may have been introduced.

5. Annual Reports on Horticultural and Botanical Gardens—These may, as already indicated, be dealt with departmentally, and need not, in the opinion of the Government of India, be reviewed at length by any higher authority than the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, or other controlling officer, but should be forwarded to the Government of India for information, with a copy of any orders that may have been passed on them by the Local Government. A representation recently received through the Secretary of State from the authorities at Kew, as to the utility of such reports, indicates the advisability of their maintenance as a record of useful or interesting facts and experiments.

6. Reports on Experimental Farms are divided into two sections—Statistical and Administrative. The former are issued yearly or half-yearly, and should, under existing orders, be distributed by Departments of Land Records and Agriculture direct to the Government of India, other provinces, and agricultural institutions. They should continue to be prepared, but require no review or orders by the Local Government. The complete reports, including the Administrative section, will be dealt with in the same manner as reports on gardens.

7. Internal Trade Statistics.—The quarterly and annual returns are, under existing orders, distributed and briefly reviewed by the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, or by such other authority as may be responsible for them. In future the annual report on Internal trade may, in the opinion of His Excellency in Council, be dealt with in the same manner as reports on Sea-borne trade; and no further review will be required from Local Governments and Administrations.

8. Reports on Colonial and Inland Emigration should be retained in their present form.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Local Governments and Administrations noted in the margin, for information and guidance; and to the Home Department for information.

The Report for 1885-86, and the Resolution recorded upon it.

The Report which has been submitted shows that the Commissioners have during the year taken great interest in the duties entrusted to them. In paragraph 4 is given a table showing the attendance of the Commissioners at the different meetings held. The average attendance at meetings of those invited to attend was 48·6 per cent. as against 50·5 per cent. last year. At General and Town Council meetings there was a slight improvement (59·3 and 49 per cent. as against 58·8 and 48 per cent. last year), while there was a slight decrease in the attendance at Committees and Sub-Committees (36 6 per cent. as against 41·1 per cent). It is no doubt at these last that the hardest work is done; but to ascertain the real and great improvement which has taken place it is necessary only to compare the report criticised by Sir Ashley Eden in 1880 with that now placed before Government. This, in Sir Steuart Bayley's opinion, promises well for the manner in which the heavier duties connected with the larger area of the Suburbs and the Town will be performed.

2. The revenue receipts and expenditure are shown under three heads—General Fund, Water-rate, and Lighting-rate. The total income was Rs. 30,01,636 and the expenditure was Rs. 29,96,189. In paragraph 72 it is stated that the administration of the License Department, the receipts of which go to the General Fund, has been far from satisfactory during the year. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to be informed what action the Commissioners have taken on the points indicated in that and the next succeeding paragraph. From the General Fund a sum of Rs. 1,36,779 was expended on the "cleansing and structural improvement of bustees." Under the head Lighting-rate there was an excess of expenditure over receipts of nearly Rs. 30,000. Rather more than half of this was due to the illumination for the Jubilee of Her Majesty. But if this item be excluded, it still appears doubtful whether the normal expenditure will not prove to be in excess of the income. This fund closed the year with a deficit of Rs. 6,880. The Police-rate Fund and other special funds do not call for any remark.

3. Sanction was accorded to raising a loan of Rs. 26,25,000. Of this, however, Rs. 8,75,000 was for the purpose of repaying the 6 per cent. loan of 1866, and the net liability of the Corporation was increased by only about thirteen lakhs during the year. At the close of the year this liability amounted to Rs. 1,69,12,035. The capital expenditure, exclusive of sums spent on brokerage, discount, and repayment of loans, amounted to Rs. 10,76,787, and was distributed as follows:—

	Rs.
Drainage	1,58,343
Water-supply	7,58,141
Town and bustee improvement	1,53,974
Jora Bagan bustee improvement	6,329
Total ...	10,76,787

4. The heads of expenditure noticed in the last paragraph indicate the chief directions of activity during the year, and considerable progress has been made. The special drainage works undertaken during the year were the drainage of Hastings, the drainage of the Baug Bazar area, and the sewering of a portion of the Mahratta Ditch. Sixteen tanks were filled up during the year and twenty-two were being filled up; while at the same time twenty-eight more bathing-platforms were brought into use. On the cleansing and structural improvement of bustees, the total expenditure amounted to Rs. 2,17,554. Of 39 bustees taken in hand by the Commissioners, 16 have now been thoroughly dealt with. Before the close of the year the improvements in four others were approaching completion, and those in five others had been commenced. The expenditure incurred on this account is shown in a new abstract account which has been opened of the receipts and disbursements of the Town and Bustee Improvement Capital Account, and to this account have been transferred the sums set apart in the General Fund account for expenditure on Town and Bustee Improvement. The results are creditable, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the Commissioners will continue to direct their attention to this very important subject.

5. A very interesting case was brought to notice by the Health Officer in his report for the quarter ending 31st March 1887, in which there was reason to believe that the occurrence of an outbreak of cholera on board a vessel in the port was connected with the circumstance that the milk supplied to some of the crew was adulterated by the vendor with water from a polluted tank situated in Howrah. It was found that immediately before the outbreak in the vessel there was a case of cholera in a house on the bank of the tank, and that this was followed by several others. The attention of the Commissioners of the Howrah Municipality will be drawn to the case.

6. As an appendix to the Report is printed the Report of the Health Officer of the Corporation, which is not inferior in interest to any which has yet been submitted. He has continued the enquiry into the causes which facilitate the spread of cholera with energy; and, apart from its scientific interest, this enquiry, which discloses a very bad state of things in the bustees and most thickly populated portions of the town, indicates with sufficient definiteness the directions in which action is urgently required. The care and minuteness with which the enquiry has been conducted are sufficiently shown by the maps and diagrams which accompany the Report. The conclusions to which the Health Officer has come are that there has been a recent increase in the mortality from cholera, and that, coincident with this increase, and most marked where the increase has been greatest, there have been a growing scarcity of water, extension of drainage unaccompanied with sufficient flushing and cleansing, and insufficient conservancy and nuisance removal. The Commissioners do not wholly endorse the conclusions of their Health Officer. They contest the statement that there has been a growing scarcity of water, and they point out that the mortality from cholera fell before the introduction of the water-supply, and that the death-rate is greatest simply where the population is densest; while they refer to the researches of Dr. Simpson's predecessors as showing that the mortality in Calcutta rises and falls with that in the neighbouring districts, and that the explanation of the recrudescence of cholera noticed by Dr. Simpson must be sought for in wider and more general causes than those indicated by him.

7. The final conclusion of the Health Officer is given in the last paragraph of his Report on Cholera. It is that the return to a higher death rate in Calcutta compared with previous years means that the sanitary work has not kept pace with the requirements of the town. The proof of the deterioration, as distinguished from the specific causes assigned for it, which have been mentioned in the preceding paragraph, is given in paragraph 32 of that Report. In the table given in that paragraph, a comparison is made of the absolute numbers of deaths in Calcutta, in Howrah, and in the Suburbs. Two periods of four years each are selected for comparison, the numbers of deaths in the three places are compared, and the results are reduced to the form of a ratio. It is shown that in the second of those periods, as compared with the first, the ratios which the numbers of deaths in Howrah and in the Suburbs bear to the numbers of deaths in Calcutta have diminished. It is inferred from this that either the sanitation of the two former places has improved, or that of Calcutta has grown worse; it is argued that there has been no improvement in Howrah or in the Suburbs; and the final conclusion is thus reached. In the second of the two periods selected there was no increase in the aggregate numbers of deaths in Howrah and the Suburbs; so that the comparison made does afford some grounds for the first conclusion arrived at, that either these places have improved or Calcutta has grown worse. But the method of comparison adopted is likely to mislead. The population of Calcutta is greater than that of the Suburbs, while the absolute number of deaths from cholera in Calcutta is less. It is obvious therefore that an identical increase in the rate of mortality will make the absolute number of deaths more nearly equal, and this error is intensified when the results are shown in the form of ratios. Thus, if the deaths in Calcutta and in the Suburbs increased by precisely the same number, the ratio, which is the basis of the comparison, would approach more nearly to equality; whereas really the rate of increase in Calcutta would have been much less because it has a larger population. A similar objection applies to the comparison with Howrah.

8. A more suitable basis for comparison is the mean death-rates in the different areas in consecutive periods. A comparison of the quinquennial mean death-rates of the years 1875 to 1880, with those of the years 1881 to 1885, shows that the mean death-rate of Calcutta increased from 3·1 to 4·5, that of Howrah from 4·6 to 6 1, and that of the Suburbs from 7·4 to 8·4. The increase was therefore less in Calcutta than in Howrah, and greater in Calcutta than in the Suburbs. It is important to observe also that this increase in the mean death-rate is not peculiar to the places mentioned, but is shown by the second diagram facing page 10 of the Health Officer's report for 1885 to have taken place also in the neighbouring districts. These facts appear to the Lieutenant-Governor to justify the opinion of the late Health Officer of Calcutta, in which the Commissioners concurred, that the increase is to be attributed to wider and more general causes, than local insanitation.

9. At page 11 of the Health Officer's Report on Cholera a diagram is given showing the rates of mortality in Calcutta, Howrah and the Suburbs, and, in support of his argument that Calcutta has retrograded, the Health Officer points out that the rise both in the Suburbs and in Howrah during the last quinquennium is not greater than the height reached in them in some of the years of the previous decade, while the rise in Calcutta attained a greater height than it had attained in the previous ten years. It appears to the Lieutenant-Governor that the facts scarcely support this conclusion. An inspection of the diagram shows that the death-rates exhibit great differences, that of Calcutta remaining the lowest and increasing the least. In other words, the superior sanitary condition of Calcutta keeps the disease more under control.

10. While, however, the Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the Commissioners that the arguments adduced by the Health Officer are not sufficient to establish the fact of positive retrogression in the sanitary state of Calcutta, they are certainly sufficiently serious to demand the most careful and vigilant action of the Commissioners to remedy the defects complained of. The question is not whether the increase of cholera in Calcutta is due to deterioration of sanitary efficiency compared with that of past years, but whether the defects pointed out do or do not exist, and what measures the Commissioners are prepared to take to remedy them. The Health Officer clearly shows that where the insanitary conditions indicated by him are most marked, there also the increase of mortality is most noticeable; and though his comparative inferences may be combated, his statement of existing facts is scarcely sufficiently met by the remarks in the Commissioners' Report. The Commissioners point to the report of their Engineer as showing that the supply of filtered water is greater than it has ever been before, and contend that filtered water is now within the reach of all. The Health Officer, in paragraph 19, page 6, of his report on the distribution of cholera during the past ten years' admitted the increase, but he showed how, notwithstanding this, it would be erroneous to infer that more water was everywhere and for all classes available. Yet this is the inference on which the Commissioners rely. The specific statements which Dr. Simpson makes are the results of his own personal observations, and they do not bear out the Commissioners' conclusions. The scarcity may be due to preventible waste, or it may be due to causes at present unknown; but the Lieutenant-Governor considers that the matter is one which calls for thorough investigation, and he hopes that the Commissioners will cause such an investigation to be made. The second point to which the Health Officer draws attention is the insufficient provision for cleansing drains in narrow streets. As regards this the Commissioners refer to the increased supply of unfiltered water; but this reply is open to the same objection—that it misses the special point in issue. It is not a necessary inference from this fact that the particular drains referred to by the Health Officer are properly cleansed; while, on the other hand, it should be remembered that in this case also the conclusions of the Health Officer are based on actual inspections made by him. With reference to the third cause assigned by the Health Officer—insufficient conservancy and nuisance removal—the Commissioners give figures showing the increase in the amount of rubbish removed from the Town. In paragraph 153 of the Report, however, the increase in the year 1886-87 is attributed partly to the fact that only a few tanks are now available for filling with rubbish; and as the number of cart-loads disposed of in this manner in each year is not given, it is impossible to say what weight ought to be attached to these figures. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that these questions will receive the early and earnest attention of the Commissioners.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank the Commissioners for their services and the interest shown by them in the affairs of the Municipality during the year. The Hon'ble Sir Henry Harrison was Chairman of the Corporation, Baboo Gopal Lal Mitter, Vice-Chairman, and Mr. Robert Turnbull, Secretary, throughout the year. The Commissioners close their report with a well-merited encomium of the excellent service rendered to the Corporation by their Secretary, Mr. Robert Turnbull. Mr. Turnbull is about to retire upon a special pension which the Commissioners have granted him in recognition of the attention, courtesy and assiduous devotion to duty displayed by him during many years. The Lieutenant-Governor has much pleasure in endorsing the judgment of the Commissioners, and in testifying to the high esteem in which Mr. Turnbull has been held both by the Government and by the public.

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

CALCUTTA, the 24th January 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 20TH OF JANUARY 1888.

THE weather during the past week has again been uniformly fine over the greater part of the province, and except in parts of Behar and North Bengal skies have been practically cloudless throughout this period. Along the line of the hills as represented by the observations at Darjeeling, skies have been heavily clouded throughout the week, and about the 16th skies began to cloud over at some of the stations in the plains near the foot of the hills. Those conditions were probably the result of the easterly movement of a slight barometric depression which had formed over Northern India at the close of the previous week, but the depression was apparently of a slight nature and rapidly filled up in its advance. It appears probable, however, that the depression must have given a fall of snow along the Himalayas, though with the exception of a few drops of rain reported from several stations, no measureable falls of rain have been reported at any of the stations in either North Bengal or Behar. In Chutia Nagpur at Hazaribagh on the 18th, and in Orissa at Dhurmsalla in the Cuttack district on the 17th instant light showers have fallen, but with these exceptions the whole province was rainless throughout the week. Winds have generally been light at the majority of stations, and in several instances calms were reported during the earlier days of the week, but the wind directions on the whole have been fairly steady from the north and north-west. Throughout the week therefore the cold-weather conditions in Bengal have been well marked and have been very fully developed.

Barometer.—During the previous week a steady and prolonged fall of pressure had taken place, but at the beginning of the present week a slight increase of pressure commenced, which has continued almost uninterruptedly during the week, though on the 17th and 20th slight falls were reported at some stations. Nevertheless the average pressure for the province has been slightly in defect of the normal, and taking into consideration only those stations which have recorded observations for a series of years, the mean pressure for the week for the whole province has been 0·014 inch in defect. The defect is again largest in the northern districts, such as North Bengal and North Behar.

Temperature and Humidity.—Humidity was decidedly low at the commencement of the week, but it then generally increased and remained moderately high till the close of the week, when it again began to fall. The variations of temperature have also been somewhat similar, and temperature was low on the 14th, and it then rose slowly at the majority of stations for the greater part of the week, but on the 20th it had again commenced to fall. Compared with the normal, the mean temperature of the province for the week has been 1·3° in defect of the normal, and this defect is very equally distributed, except in the case of South Behar, where it has been somewhat less than 1°.

The variations of the average temperature during the week from the normal can be seen from the following table, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures at nine typical stations in different districts in the province are given compared with the normal means for the same period. It will be seen that the defects from the normal have been largest in the night or minimum temperatures, for the mean maximum or day temperature of the nine stations has been 0·4° in defect of the normal, while the mean minimum or night temperature has been 2·2° in defect of the normal :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Offg. Meteorological Reporter to the Govt. of India.

METEOROLOGICAL OFFICE, GOVT. OF INDIA;
Calcutta, the 23th January 1888.

MEMORANDUM.

THE chief features in the mortuary statistics of the districts in Bengal, for the month of November 1887, deduced from the table annexed to this memorandum, are—

1. That the deaths of 147,957 persons were registered out of a population of 66,163,884 in these districts, presenting a death-rate of 26·76 per 1,000 per annum, against 24·48 per 1,000 in the preceding month, and 32·04 per 1,000 during the corresponding month of 1886, indicating, as compared with the former period, a fair advance in the registration of deaths, and that of the latter period, a great retrogression.

2. That the highest casualty-rates were returned from the following districts :—

Districts.	Ratio per mille.	Districts.	Ratio per mille.
Maldah	53·64	Bogra	34·20

3. That referring to the incidence of the specific death-causes mentioned in the table given below, it is seen that cholera and fever prevailed with considerably less fatality during the month under notice as compared with the results of the corresponding month of the preceding year, and that the death-rates from the other diseases exhibited only fractional variations :—

* A special census of the Europeans for the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remain as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans [illegible] the returns not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

The 26th January 1888.—The following Resolution by the Government of India is published for general information.

COLMAN MACAULAY,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Department of Finance and Commerce, No. 96, dated Calcutta, the 7th January 1888.

IN accordance with the provisions of the Indian Securities Act XIII of 1886, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following rules under section 14 of the Act :—

1. Interest cages, showing the several half-years at which interest will accrue, shall be imprinted on the reverse of each new note issued, and payment shall be recorded by the stamp of the Disbursing Office, or by a manuscript entry, over the space apportioned to the half-year concerned. If payment be made at a Presidency town, the recording entry shall show the Presidency and the date and number of the issuing warrant, which shall be in the form of a negotiable instrument payable to the holder's order. But if payment be made at a District Treasury, the recording entry shall show the name of the Treasury, the number borne by the payment voucher, and the date of payment; this entry shall be authenticated by the initials of the Treasury Officer, and the holder's receipt shall be taken on the face of the payment voucher. If, however, the note be of the old form, and bear no interest cage, the holder's endorsement for interest will be required on the note itself, and payments will be authenticated by the Disbursing Officer under the endorsement as heretofore.

2. Under the preceding rule, interest cages shall be imprinted, and (in the case of notes in the old form) holder's endorsements for interest shall be written only on the back of the note itself.

3. If the note be of the old form and bear no interest cage, the holder's endorsement for interest should agree letter for letter with the name in the body of the note, or in the transferring endorsement, as the case may be; the usual signature may be added below.

4. An endorsement or receipt by a native female must be attested by the signatures of at least two respectable witnesses, who must attend before the Officer in charge of the Treasury where interest is payable, and certify to the genuineness of the endorsement or receipt.

5. Notice of any private trust in an endorsement or receipt for interest is inadmissible.

6. A note blank endorsed by the holder is not receivable at any Government Treasury or at the Public Debt Offices in the Presidency towns. The holder of any such security will therefore be required to specially endorse the same before submitting it for payment of interest.

7. The holder of a note may be required to receipt the same for renewal in all or any of the following cases, that is to say—

(1) If the note has been enfaced for payment of interest at a Mofussil Treasury, and the holder thereof is desirous of altering the place of payment.

(2) If only sufficient room remains on the back of the note for one further endorsement, or when any word or words is or are written upon the note across any existing endorsement or endorsements, all cross endorsements being strictly prohibited.

(3) If the note is torn or in any way damaged or crowded with writing, or unfit, in the opinion of the officer before whom it is produced for payment of interest, for receiving endorsement.

(4) If, in the opinion of such last-mentioned officer, the title of the person presenting the note for payment of interest is irregular or not fully proved.

(5) If the note in question, being a counterpart note issued under the provisions of Rule 8, has ceased to be the property of a minor, or to belong to an estate in which administration is limited to interest.

In all or any of the preceding cases payment of any further interest on such note may be refused until the note is receipted for renewal and actually renewed.

8. In the case of any note which is the property of a minor, or belongs to an estate in which administration is limited to interest, the Public Debt Office at Calcutta may, upon such note being deposited with them, issue to the holder of such note a counterpart thereof, having the words "counterpart not negotiable" stamped across the face thereof, and further payments of interest may be recorded upon such counterpart. Whenever such note shall cease to be the property of a minor, or shall cease to belong to an estate in which administration is limited to interest, the further payment of interest in respect of the note may be refused, until the first or any subsequent counterpart (as the case may be) issued in respect of it has been receipted and renewed in the manner provided in the last preceding rule. Upon such counterpart being receipted and renewed as aforesaid, the same, together with the original note and any preceding counterpart issued in respect thereof, will be cancelled.

9. No payment of interest, and no record or acknowledgment of the payment of interest, and no issue of a counterpart note under the preceding rules, is to be deemed or taken to be an acknowledgment of the title of the holder of any note.

10. The following fees are payable in respect of applications under sections 11 and 12 of the Act:—

For each renewed or duplicate security, 4 annas per cent if the new note does not exceed Rs. 400, and Re. 1 if the new note exceeds that sum

11. A note tendered for renewal must be receipted on the reverse as follows:—

"Received in lieu hereof a renewed note in the name of , with interest payable at Signature of holder."

12 If a person tendering a note for renewal applies for more than one note in lieu of the note tendered, the latter must be receipted on the reverse as follows, or as near thereto as circumstances will admit:—

"Received in lieu of the within two (or more) notes for Rs. respectively in the name of , with interest payable at Signature of holder."

13. If a person tendering more than one note for renewal applies for one consolidated note in lieu of the notes tendered, the latter must be receipted as follows, or as near thereto as circumstances will admit:—

"Received in lieu of the within a new note in the name of for Rs. by consolidation with Promissory Note or Notes Nos. (mentioning the numbers and amounts of the other notes desired to be consolidated with it) with interest payable at

14. The form of receipt mentioned in the foregoing rules must be very clearly and correctly written, and there must be no ambiguity as to the name of the payee of the new note. The holder's signature should agree letter for letter with the name in the body of the note, or in the transferring endorsement, as the case may be; the usual signature may be added below.

15. The holder of any note requiring renewal may procure a renewed note in lieu of his original security in any of the following ways, that is to say, he may present it duly receipted, either in person or through a representative, at—(1) Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, Calcutta; or (2) at a Government Treasury for transmission to that office; or (3) at the Banks of Madras and Bombay, who, as Agents of the said Bank of Bengal, may either renew such notes on their own responsibility, or may forward them to the said Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, for renewal. In the case of notes presented direct to the said Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal, or transmitted to it for renewal, either through a Government Treasury or the Bank of Madras or of Bombay, the prescribed officer referred to in section 11 of the said Act shall be the Secretary, Bank of Bengal, for the time being; and in the case of notes presented for renewal at the Bank of Madras or of Bombay, and renewed by those Banks on their own responsibility, such officer shall be the Secretary of the Bank of Madras or of the Bank of Bombay, for the time being, as the case may be.

16. The officer referred to in section 12, sub-section (1) of the Act, shall be the Comptroller-General for the time being.

17. The loss or destruction of a Promissory Note shall be notified, in the first instance, by letter addressed to the Bank of Bengal, Public Debt Office, Calcutta; such letter shall contain the following particulars:—

(1) Particulars of the note according to the following form:—

(5) Particulars of coupons attached (if any).
(6) Where enfaced at present.
(7) The circumstances attending the loss.
(8) Whether the loss was reported to the Police.

The above letter shall be accompanied by—

(a) The Post Office registry receipt for the letter containing the note, if the same was lost in transmission by post.
(b) The Police report, if any can be obtained.
(c) A letter signed by the Officer of the Treasury or Presidency Bank where interest was last paid, certifying the last payment of interest made on the note, and to whom, if interest was paid out of Calcutta.

(e) Any portions or fragment which may remain of the lost or destroyed note.

A duplicate of the letter to the Public Debt Office, Calcutta, must also be sent to the Treasury where interest is payable.

18. The loss or destruction of a Promissory Note shall be further notified by an advertisement, which the applicant for a duplicate note shall cause to be inserted in three successive issues of the Gazette of India, and of the Local Government Gazette of the place where the loss or destruction occurred. Such notification shall be in the form following, or as near thereto as the circumstances will admit:—

Lost or destroyed (as the case may be).

The Government Promissory Note No. , of the per cent loan of , for Rs. , the proprietor, by whom it was never endorsed to any other person, having been lost or destroyed, notice is hereby given that payment of the above note, and the interest thereupon, have been stopped at the Public Debt Office, Bank of Bengal Calcutta, and that application is about to be made for the issue of a duplicate in favour of the proprietor. The public are cautioned against purchasing or otherwise dealing with the above-mentioned Security.

Residence—

19. At the expiration of six months from the date of the insertion of the last advertisement, the Comptroller-General shall, if satisfied of the loss or destruction of a portion of a note, and of the justice of the claim of the applicant, and if a sufficient portion for the identification of the note so lost or destroyed shall have been produced, direct the Public Debt Office, upon the execution of such bond of indemnity as is hereinafter mentioned, to issue to the applicant a duplicate note in lieu of that so lost or destroyed as aforesaid. If, however, no portion or no sufficient portion of the note so lost or destroyed shall have been produced as aforesaid, then, at the expiration of two years from the date of the insertion of such last advertisement, the Comptroller-General shall, if satisfied as aforesaid, pass an order directing the Public Debt Office, upon the execution of such bond of indemnity as is hereinafter mentioned, to pay the applicant interest in respect of the note so lost or destroyed pending the issue of a duplicate note, and also directing the said Public Debt Office, at the expiration of six years from the date of the publication of the list in which the lost or destroyed security is first mentioned, if no reason to the contrary appear, to issue to the applicant (on his executing and procuring the execution by two sureties of such indemnity bond as is hereinafter mentioned, should the same be deemed necessary by the Comptroller-General), a duplicate note in lieu of that so lost or destroyed as aforesaid.

20. The Comptroller-General may, within six years of the date of an order passed by him under Rule 19, if he finds sufficient reason, alter or cancel such order, and may also require that the interval before the issue of a duplicate note be extended to twelve years, or such shorter period not being less than six years, as he may think fit.

21. Indemnity bonds when taken on the issue of a duplicate note or notes shall be for twice the amount of such note or notes, and when taken on the issue of orders for payment of interest shall be for twice the amount of the interest involved, that is to say, twice the aggregate amount of all back interest accrued due on the note, plus twice the amount of all interest to accure due thereon, during the six years which will have to elapse before the issue of a duplicate note can be made. In simple cases such bonds may be issued by the Comptroller-General at Calcutta in a printed form prescribed by Government. No fee will be chargeable if a bond does not exceed in amount Rs. 500; but on bonds for higher amounts a fee of Rs. 5 for every Rs. 1,000 or part of Rs. 1,000 will be charged, provided that no fee for any one bond so issued shall exceed in amount Rs. 30. If however, the Comptroller-General consider that the circumstances of the case demand that a bond shall be specially prepared by the Government Solicitor, a fee of Rs. 32 shall be payable to that officer.

22. The list of securities lost or destroyed, referred to in section 12 (3) of the said Act in respect of which an order is made for payment of interest pending the issue of a duplicate security, or for the issue of such duplicate security, shall be advertised half-yearly in the Gazette of India, in the months of January and July, or as soon afterwards as may be convenient. All securities in respect of which an order has been passed as aforesaid shall be included in the first list published next after the passing of such order, and shall continue to be advertised every half-year until the expiration of six years from the date of first publication, or from the date of the last payment of interest on the original securities, whichever is the later date. Such list shall contain the following particulars, viz., the name of the loan and number of the lost note, its value, in whose name it was issued, from what date it bears interest, the name of the claimant for a duplicate, the number and date of the order passed by the Comptroller-General for payment of interest or issue of a duplicate, and the date of publication of the list in which such security was first mentioned

HIGH COURT NOTICE.

IT is ordered that the following rules be read and passed as the rules and orders of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, to take effect from the 1st day of March 1888.

1. A list of references of every description which are ripe for hearing and are pending before the Court itself, or before any of the officers of the Court, or any other Commissioner appointed to take accounts or make inquiries, shall be published at such times and in such manner as the Judge ordinarily taking motions on the Original Side of the Court may from time to time determine.

2. The printed cause list for each day shall contain a list of the references liable to be heard on that day by the officers before whom such references are pending.

3. Such list of references shall be divided into two parts—the first of such parts to consist of references of an urgent nature, or which can be quickly concluded, and to be styled "List of urgent references:" the second part to consist of all other references, and to be styled 'List of ordinary references."

4. Urgent references shall include the following :—

Accounts in mortgage suits.

Sales by the Registrar.

The settlement of proclamations of conditions of sale or of conveyances.

Inquiries under section 267 of the Civil Procedure Code, or under section 90 of the Probate and Administration Act.

Inquiries as to what would be proper to be allowed for maintenance or marriage expenses.

Inquiries as to whether proposed terms of settlement would be for the benefit of a minor.

References as to the appointment of guardian and such other inquiries and references as may be determined by the Court or a Judge.

5. Any Judge sitting on the Original Side may order any particular reference or inquiry to be taken as an urgent reference. Such order need not be made in Court, but may be made upon a representation made by the Registrar or other officer or Commissioner.

6. No reference shall be placed in the list of references for the day unless it be ripe for hearing.

7. The Registrar or other officer shall, at the commencement of each daily sitting, hear applications with regard to pending references, and shall not hear any reference until such applications have been exhausted, but no such application shall be made or heard on any day after the hearing of references have been commenced.

8. The officer or Commissioner shall, on each day in the first place, hear in order the urgent references on his list for the day, and shall then proceed to hear in order the ordinary references on his list for the day.

9. Each reference shall, unless otherwise ordered by a Judge, be taken in its turn, and it shall be continued de die en diem until it be concluded.

No references on the list of causes for the day shall (without leave of the Court or a Judge) be postponed or adjourned except under circumstances which would justify the postponement or adjournment of a cause. The consent of parties, or the convenience of Counsel or attorney, shall not of themselves be considered sufficient grounds for the postponement or adjournment of a reference or inquiry.

10. References not on the list of causes for the day can, at the discretion of the person to whom they have been referred, be postponed or adjourned, but subject to the control or orders of the Judge taking motions on the Original Side.

11. Any Judge sitting on the Original Side may, by an order in Court or in Chambers, postpone or adjourn any reference pending before himself or before any officer or Commissioner.

12. When, in the opinion of the Judge taking motions on the Original Side, it is necessary that some or all of the references pending before any officer of the Court or Commissioner should be heard by the Court itself, or by some other officer or Commissioner, such Judge may re-call such references into Court, and any time make such order as may be necessary for the purpose aforesaid, or if the parties should consent to any such change, he may make such order without re-calling the reference into Court.

13. These rules are to be read with, and to form part of, the general rules of the Original Side.

14. These rules shall come into operation on and from the 1st day of March 1888.

Orders and Notifications by the Government of India, &c.

[Reprinted from the "Gazette of India."]

The following Resolution, issued by the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department, is published for general information.

P. NOLAN,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS IN FORCE AT COOPER'S HILL COLLEGE FOR THE PROFESSIONAL TRAINING OF FOREST STUDENTS.

CIRCULAR No. 1F.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Revenue and Agricultural Department,—dated Calcutta, the 11th January 1888.

FORESTS.

READ the following circulars on the subject of the training of Indian Forest Officers at the Royal Indian Engineering College, Cooper's Hill:—

No.	22F.,	dated	24th September 1885.
„	15F.	„	28th October 1886.
„	1F.	„	15th January 1887.
„	2F.	„	18th February „
„	3F.	„	5th April „

Read also the following correspondence with Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India, regarding the special arrangements in force at Cooper's Hill College for the professional training of Forest Students:—

No. 3, dated 23rd July 1887.

From—His Excellency LORD DUFFERIN, Viceroy, and the HON'BLES GENERAL SIR F. S. ROBERTS, SIR T. C. HOPE, SIR A. COLVIN, GENERAL G. CHESNEY, A. R. SCOBLE, and J. B. PELLE, Members of Council,

To—Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

As we are frequently called upon to make available for employment in the Colonies the services of officers on the active list of our Indian Forest Service, whom we cannot spare without inconvenience, especially as we have to meet similar requisitions in India from the Chiefs of Native States, it has occurred to us to suggest that Dr. Schlich, Inspector-General of Forests to the Government of India, on deputation at Cooper's Hill College, might be instructed to prepare a Note, describing the special arrangements in force at that institution for the professional training of candidates for employment in the Forest Service, which might, with Your Lordship's approval, be communicated to the Colonial Office for the information of the Colonial Governments. Those Governments which aim at having a Forest Department of their own would thus have the opportunity afforded them of considering whether they might not themselves make provision for the education at Cooper's Hill College of such trained Forest Officers as may be required by them from time to time.

No. 88 (Revenue), dated 3rd November 1887.

From—The RIGHT HON'BLE VISCOUNT CROSS, G.C.B., Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India,

To—The Government of India

WITH reference to the letter of Your Excellency's Government in the Forest Department, No. 3, dated 23rd July last, I forward herewith 25 copies of a paper which has been drawn up in accordance with your suggestion by Dr. Schlich describing the special arrangements in force at the Royal Indian Engineering College, Cooper's Hill, for the professional training of Forest students. Copies of this document have also been transmitted to the Colonial Office.

2. I take this opportunity of stating that this compilation will take the place of the "Paper of Particulars," and be issued to the public for general information.

1. The Royal Indian Engineering College is primarily maintained, under the orders of the Secretary of State for India in Council, for the education of candidates for the service of Government in the India Public Works, Telegraph, and Forest Departments; but it is open, to the extent of the accommodation available, to all persons desirous of following the course of study pursued in it.

India Forest Department Appointments.

2. Candidates for the India Forest Department are selected under the following arrangements :—

(a) An applicant must be a natural-born British subject, and must be above 17 and under 21 years of age on the 1st June of the year in which he competes for an appointment. He must be unmarried, and if he marries before reaching India he will forfeit his appointment.

---

* The staff of the College is only given in so far as it concerns the Forest Branch.
† Sir D. Brandis is not on the staff of the College.

(b) An applicant must send to the Revenue Department of the India Office, on or before the first day of May of the year in which he proposes to compete—

(1) His name and parentage, a certificate or other satisfactory evidence of the date of his birth, and the written consent of parent or guardian that his name should be recorded as a candidate.

(2) A statement of the places of education at which he may have been since he was nine years old, accompanied by testimonials of good conduct during the last four years. He must also pay a fee of 4*l.* by means of a special stamp, according to instructions which will be communicated to candidates.

(c) Applicants will have to appear before a Medical Board* at the India Office, and to satisfy the Board that they attain a suitable standard of physical constitution. Particular stress will be laid upon good vision and hearing, and means will be taken to test physical powers of endurance, so as to ensure the selection of persons of active habits and sound constitution.

(d) The applicants who have successfully passed the medical examination and the physical tests will be examined, usually in the month of June of each year, in the following subjects, marks being assigned as indicated below :—

(e) The Secretary of State reserves the right to reject any candidate who fails to obtain either the prescribed minimum of marks in any one group, or a total minimum of 2,000 marks.†

(f) From the competitors who attain the abovementioned minima of marks and satisfy the requisite conditions in other respects, the Secretary of State will select, as probationers to enter the College, those whom he may deem best adapted for the Forest Service of India. The number of candidates selected annually, which varies according to the requirements of the Forest Service in India, can be ascertained at the Revenue Department of the India Office, and it will also be advertised from time to time. In 1888 there will be 12 probationers.

3. The course of study for candidates for the India Forest Service extends over about 26 months. During the first 22 months, including two complete annual sessions, the candidates will prosecute their studies at the College, and during the remaining four months they will be instructed, under suitable supervision, in such British or Continental forests as may be selected for the purpose. Excursions will also be made during part of the College vacations.

4. Each annual session begins in September, and is divided into three terms, with vacations of about four weeks at Christmas, two weeks at Easter, and eight weeks in the summer.

* With a view to prevent parents and guardians from incurring the inconvenience and expense of preparing candidates who may be physically unfit for the Forest Service, it is suggested that candidates be submitted to examination by the medical adviser of the family, or any other qualified medical practitioner, with regard to the following points :—

1. A weak constitution.
2. Defective vision.
3. Impaired hearing.
4. The existence of any congenital defect.

It is to be understood that this private examination is merely suggested to lessen the chances of disappointment, and that it is by no means intended to take the place of, or to influence in any way, the official examination.

On the subject of the standard of eyesight required for the Indian services, a pamphlet has been published, under the authority of the Secretary of State in Council, by Messrs. Churchill and Sons, 11, New Burlington Street.

† The papers set at previous examinations, together with the number of marks obtained by the successful candidates, are published from time to time in the Reports of the Civil Service Commissioners, which can be procured through any bookseller.

5. An annual charge of 183*l.* is made for each student, which must be paid in advance to the Bank of England in three sums of 61*l.* per term. Receivable orders, with full directions as to the mode of payment, will be forwarded from the India Office to the parents or guardians shortly before the fees fall due. A student will not be allowed into residence until his fee has been paid.

6. A deposit of 5*l.* is required to be paid by each student on admission to the College, as caution money, to cover charges incurred by him for damage to books, instruments, &c., or any College bills outstanding on leaving the College. Any balance over and above such charges will be repaid. This deposit is to be paid with the fee for the first term, making the total payment on that occasion 66*l.*

7. The foregoing payments cover all charges for tuition, board according to the College tariff, lodging with washing, and ordinary medical attendance while in residence at the College. When on tour and during the course of practical instruction, whether in Great Britain, or on the Continent, each student receives an allowance of 10*s.* per day in lieu of board, lodging, and washing, and the Secretary of State also defrays the travelling expenses of the students, fees to local Forest Officers, &c.

Students are required to provide their own class books and drawing instruments. Drawing paper, drawing boards, and surveying instruments are provided by the College.

8. The prescribed course of study at the College extends at present over a period of two years, divided into six terms, and comprises the following subjects:—

(a) Mathematics, including Logarithms and Trigonometry.

(b) Applied Mathematics, following the ordinary course for Engineering students.

(c) Surveying, the course being the same as that laid down for Engineering students.

(d) Descriptive Engineering, comprising a knowledge of the materials used in construction and road-making.

(e) Geometrical Drawing.

(f) Freehand Drawing.

(g) Accounts.

(h) French or German.

(i) Physics (Theoretical and Practical).

(k) Geology and Mineralogy.

(l) Botany, including Anatomy, Physiology, Systematic Botany, and Pathology, with demonstrations in the laboratory, field, and at the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew.

(m) Entomology, preceded by an introduction to General Zoology.

(n) Forestry in all its branches, with demonstrations in the museum, in adjoining woodlands, and more distant forests.

(o) Practical course in Forestry, extending over about four months, in suitable forests in Great Britain and on the Continent.

9. Every student will be required to exhibit due diligence in his studies throughout the course, and to give evidence of satisfactory progress, failing which, or in the event of serious personal misconduct, he will not be allowed to remain at the College.

10. During the course of study, the proficiency of the students will be tested by periodical examinations, and on the termination of their studies there will be a final examination.

11. The subjects enumerated in paragraph 8 are grouped in certain main branches of study, and a fixed minimum of qualification is required in each branch, as well as a certain minimum for all branches taken together. Students who obtain these minima will receive the College diploma in Forestry.

12. The candidates who have obtained the abovementioned diploma, provided they are found to be of sound constitution and free from physical defects which would render them unsuitable for employment, the final decision on which point will rest with the Secretary of State for India, will be nominated Junior Assistant Conservators in the Forest Department of India, ranking in seniority in the service, and choosing the provinces in which they desire to be first employed, according to the results of the examinations. But this choice can only be exercised according to the available vacancies in the different provinces, and on the understanding that officers are at all times liable to be transferred from one province to another at the pleasure of the Government of India.

13. Within a month of his nomination as Junior Assistant Conservator, each nominee must sign articles of agreement describing the terms and conditions of his appointment. He must embark for India when required to do so by the Secretary of State, and will be provided with a free passage. Failure to embark at the stated time will lead to forfeiture of appointment.

14. The pay of a Junior Assistant Conservator of Forests (which is at present Rs. 250 per mensem) will commence from the date of arrival in India.

15. Promotion, leave, and pension will be regulated by the rules of the Service for the time being.

16. Every candidate, before proceeding to India, will be required to furnish to the President of the College satisfactory evidence of his competency in riding.

GENERAL RULES.

17. Chemical, physical, and botanical laboratories, a forestry museum, a library, and gymnasium are attached to the College. Means are also provided for the practice of photography. Students making use of the laboratories are supplied with the needful apparatus.

18. The responsibility for the discipline and management of the College and for the superintendence of the studies is vested in the President, under the general control of the Secretary of State for India.

19. The students are distributed in divisions, under personal charge of one of the Professors or Instructors selected by the President, such tutor being responsible for exercising the proper degree of personal supervision over each student in his division, and for conducting necessary correspondence with the student's parents or guardians.

20. Each student residing in the College is provided with a separate room, and with fuel and light; also with the necessary attendance. Furniture and bedding are supplied by the College, but each student is required to provide his own towels and bed linen. Meals are taken in hall. Wine and beer are not included in the ordinary fare, but can be obtained from the College cellar at fixed prices.

21. A chapel is attached to the College, which the students residing in the College are expected to attend, unless specially exempted at the wish of their parents or guardians.

22. Every student will be required to go through a course of gymnastics and also of military exercises, including the use of the rifle.

23. Students are required to wear academical dress, under such regulations as may be prescribed from time to time.

Students not nominated for the Indian Forest Service, but desirous of obtaining a Diploma in Forestry from Cooper's Hill College.

24. Students not nominated for the Indian Forest Service may be received into the College, as far as the available accommodation permits. Such students may pass through the course of instruction prescribed for the nominees of the Indian Forest Service, as detailed above, or they may be permitted to participate in the instruction given in certain subject only. On attaining the prescribed minima of marks in the several branches of study and in totals as laid down above, they will receive, as the case may require, either the College Diploma in Forestry or special certificates showing in what subjects they have followed the instruction and with what result.

25. Candidates who desire to be admitted under paragraph 24 may submit the necessary application at any time, but not later than the 15th day of June of the year named for admission, except with the special permission of the President. The application must be made on the prescribed forms, which can be obtained from the Secretary of the College.

26. Candidates whose applications are found satisfactory as to character and in other respects will be required to undergo an examination, to be held at the College, about the last week in June of the year for admission. The examination will be in the subjects mentioned under paragraph 2 (d) (or certain portions of them, as the case may require), in so far as it is necessary to ascertain whether the candidate is qualified to follow the course of instruction with advantage (or certain parts of it, as the case may be). Candidates who do not come up to the required standard will not be admitted to the College.

The President may dispense with the whole or any portion of this examination in the case of a candidate who produces an university diploma, or other similar certificates granted by a recognized examining body.

27. Candidates admitted to the College under paragraph 24, who propose to pass through the full prescribed course of study, will be required to pay the same fees in every respect as those paid by the nominees for the India Forest Service. Candidates who do not become resident, and are admitted only to certain subjects of study, will be required to pay the fees which may be fixed in each special case in consideration of the extent of their studies. The candidates of both classes will be required to abide by the general rules of the College.

RULES UNDER SECTION 22, ACT I (B.C.) OF 1885, FOR THE DISTRICT OF SHAHABAD.

Rule 1.—All private ferries shall be registered in the office of the Magistrate of the district, and particulars under the following heads shall be entered in the application for registration :—

(c). The maximum number of passengers, animals, vehicles, and bulk or weight of goods to be carried by each boat.

(d). The periods or season during which the ferry is to be plied every year.

Rule 2.—Before a private ferry is registered, the Magistrate shall satisfy himself that the statements contained in the application are correct.

Rule 3.—If the proprietor of any private ferry shall not apply, as required by Rule 1, for its registration within three months from the publication of these rules, the Magistrate of the district may serve upon him a written notice requiring him to furnish the particulars stated in Rule 1 within a stated period of not less than one month; and any proprietor on whom such a notice has been served in respect of any ferry shall not maintain the same, or allow it to be maintained, after the expiry of the period fixed in such notice, unless the particulars required by Rule 1 shall have been furnished to the Magistrate as ordered.

Rule 4.—The proprietor of every private ferry shall be bound to adhere to the terms of his application, or of any statement furnished by him under Rule 3, and shall not reduce the number of boats or crews to be maintained by him, or allow any of his boats to carry an excess number of passengers, animals, vehicles or weight or bulk of goods.

Rule 5.—The proprietor shall mark on each boat the number of passengers, animals, and vehicles, and the bulk and weight of other things it is authorized to carry at a single trip.

Rule 6.—The ferry shall ordinarily ply between sunrise and sunset, but the proprietor may ply the boats after sunset, provided each boat carries a light, which must be exhibited in a conspicuous part of the boat.

Rule 7.—The ferry shall not ply when the current, wind, or state of the weather is such as to render the crossing unsafe, or to endanger the lives of the passengers.

Rule 8.—The Magistrate may direct that any boat used in any private ferry may be examined by such officer as he may depute, and may prohibit the use of such boat if he is satisfied that it is of such a kind or in such a condition that its use is dangerous to life or property.

Rule 9.—The owner of every private ferry shall report without delay, at the police-station within whose jurisdiction the ferry is situated, the occurrence of any accident at the ferry, resulting in serious injury or in loss of life.

Rule 10.—The Magistrate may require the owner of any private ferry to state the name of any person to whom such ferry may be leased, or who may be placed in charge of such ferry.

Rule 11.—The person in charge of a private ferry, and all persons employed in working a private ferry-boat, shall be responsible that such boat shall not be overladen; and every person having been directed not to enter a fully laden boat, or not to load animals and goods in it, shall be bound to obey such direction.
